

Cheques for Weldmar

MARTIN Clunes and the many fundraisers who handed over cheques to the Weldmar Hospicecare Trust

AT their recent Summer Fete, Martin Clunes accepted cheques to the value of £8,073 on behalf of the Weldmar Hospicecare Trust from a whole host of fundraisers.

Paul Vallance raised the grand sum of £2,208 by cycling solo from Lands End to John O' Groats, supported by his friend Gary Copperthwaite. He undertook this arduous venture in memory of his late mother-in-law who died of breast cancer six-years-ago, and his auntie

Jean Dagger who died two-years-ago from a brain tumour. Both were cared for by the Weldmar.

Dorchester Ellipse handed over £2,500 as a result of their fundraising efforts over the past year.

Len Watts presented a cheque for £615 on behalf of the Dorset Vehicle Preservation Society, while staff at the Little-moor branch of Somerfields raised £550 washing cars in memory of work colleague Carol Hinton who was also treated at the Joseph Weld Hospice.

The final cheque for £2,200 came from a charity VW show held in Wareham in memory of popular local lad Declan Oliver.

'A camera won't help a disabled person'

Mayor hits out at proposals to scrap porters at train station

By Paul Crompton

DISABLED and elderly passengers travelling from Dorchester's railway stations are to be left without help when the porter system is scrapped.

The town's mayor, Councillor Les Phillips has slammed the idea to cut the man-hours at the town's South Station by replacing the platform guards with a CCTV screen system.

The introduction of the scheme will mean those passengers who are unable to join and disembark trains without help could be left stranded.

As the consultation with trade unions is on-going, the implementation of the scheme and how many members of staff will be affected is not yet known.

Councillor Phillips, who is also president of the town's Stroke Club and chairman of the Dorset Association for the Disabled, said he was worried about how the changes would impact passengers lives.

Councillor Phillips said: "There are disabled people who travel the Weymouth to Bristol line and there is never anybody on the station, but there is someone on the southern station."

"There are disabled people who travel on the Weymouth outline that need help to get on and off with baggage by a porter, so if they stop that people won't be travelling on trains."

"A lot of disabled people in Dorchester cannot get buggies on busses and so go by train. The move will have a detrimental affect on people, especially disabled travellers in the town."

"I know people, disabled people, who need assistance to put on and off their luggage and I think it's a bad thing to take away those porters from the platform. They keep cutting and cutting costs and it will end one day where people won't travel if they cannot get help. "A camera won't help a disabled person on and off a train."

The move follows a trial of CCTV screens, which allow trains to be dispatched by guards, across the country and which are already in use elsewhere on the UK rail network.

A spokeswoman for South West Trains said Dorchester South Station had been singled-out for the scheme when they assessed stations across their network which could benefit from the equipment.

The spokeswoman said: "We are currently consulting with the trade unions regarding the potential impact for staff at some of the stations where this equipment may be introduced, including Dorchester South Station."

"While we recognise the many other duties carried out by staff at our stations, there are already many stations on the South West Trains network where for some time we have run a safe and effective operation for our customers without having staff on the platform to dispatch trains."

Southwest Trains have said the cutting of staff would not affect the ticket office opening hours at Dorchester South Station.

AFTER a year of volunteering Emily Weeks, 23, has just landed the position of Fundraising Officer for Bridport Museum.

Having completed a degree in Film and American Literature, at the University of East Anglia, Emily took up volunteer roles at the Museum of South Somerset in Yeovil and Bridport Museum.

Initially just a hobby to fill her time as she job hunted, Emily decided she liked the job so much that she applied for an official post.

Having successfully landed the role, made available to 18 to 24-year-olds by the Dorset County Council Future Jobs Fund, Emily is now preparing for a busy fundraising period with exciting new museum developments on the horizon.

WHAT does your job involve?

Fundraising, applying for various bits of grant money, running events and thinking of ways we can conjure up some money for the museum. We have a tea party and book sale on September, 19th as part of the hat festival weekend and we are organising a treasure hunt for August.

WHAT are your views on the potential move to the former Literary and Scientific Institute building?

I think it would be really good. I haven't actually been inside the building yet but I am hoping to go this week. It sounds amazing; we could have everything in one building and expand on what we currently have. We could have a bigger shop and maybe a café and space to rent out as well.

It's not too far from the Local History Centre to the museum but sometimes we do have to ferry people across.

WHAT are the most interesting parts of Bridport's past?

I think all the hanging history and the Bridport Dagger gets a good reception from the public, sometimes it's good and sometimes it's not so good. I think all the little personal items you get in smaller community museums are quite nice as well, the letters and things like that.

DO you think the museum attracts people from outside the area?

I think so, we have had good numbers this year and it's a place people come on holiday quite a lot and they will often have a poke about in the town and come to the museum.

WHERE do you see yourself in five years time?

I could possibly still be doing something in museums. I want to do something that interests me and that I can give something to. I would like to use my degree a bit more, I love literature so perhaps going more into the marketing side or publishing, but I'm not sure.

60 SECOND INTERVIEW

WHICH three dream guests would you invite to a dinner party?

My great granddad because he made really cool cricket balls and I have never met him. I don't know if he was famous for it but we do have a cricket ball with our name on.

I might invite Shakespeare, it would be cool to hang out with him for a bit and I think he would get on with my great granddad. I'd have someone alive to liven things up a bit as well, probably David Tennant.

WHAT was the last book you read, CD you listened to and film you watched?

The last book I read was the Eyre Affair, the last CD was Buckcherry and the last film I watched was Brotherhood of the Wolf, which is sort of a supernatural French film.

WHICH three books would you take to a desert island?

I'd take Wuthering Heights because it's brilliant, I love it. I'd take His Dark Materials by Philip Pullman and I'd take something really long so I don't get bored like Paradise Lost.

WHICH era in history would you like to go back to?

I'd like to go back to 1920's America as long as I was really rich and then I would come back just before the big crash. I think it was a glamorous and decadent period but then it all went downhill.

WHICH three items would you put into room 101?

Dogs, I don't like dogs. Bad film adaptations from books to film and baked beans, they're horrible, I've never been able to eat them ever.

Marquee loss could be detrimental to football club

ANOTHER nail is being driven into the financial coffin of Dorchester Town Football Club by councillors refusing to back a planning application.

The club's chairman has admitted the future is uncertain after the town's Planning and Environment Committee strongly rejected a renewal application for Prince's Marquee.

The Dorchester Town Supporters' Trust board are now urging West Dorset District Council to get behind the application for the benefit of the town when it comes before them later this year.

The town council recommend refusal because they were strongly of the opinion the proposal was unacceptable to local residents, and the noise level from the structure was intrusive.

Chairman of DFC Shaun Hearn said: "The previous owners of the club put the marquee up, and I've only been at the club since last September but I can tell you the club needs the revenue the marquee brings in.

"Personally I wonder if the football club can continue to exist without the marquee because it is a good source of revenue."

The marquee is used for a variety of functions ranging from matchday use, weddings and a large number of charity fundraising events and generates much needed employment within the town.

Founded in 1880 DTFC has played an important role in the community by providing the opportunity for fans to watch non league football in a family friendly environment.

Communications Officer Dan Fuge said on behalf of DTSTB: "[the marquee] further supports the vitality and economic viability of the town through the contracts it places with local businesses and the various purchases of visiting fans.

"Since its introduction, the Prince's Marquee has provided supporters and the wider community with an asset which has benefited the club with additional income and has also helped to raise the profile and enhance the reputation of the football club.

By Paul Crompton

"This has helped to sustain the club through an increasingly difficult economic climate and the retention of the marquee would continue to provide supporters and the community with a valued community based facility as well as support the financial viability of the football club itself."

Since the initial planning application was approved, the club has introduced increased soundproofing and installed an electronic sound restrictor in a bid to deal with any problems of noise for local residents.

Mr Fuge said he would like to remind planners of the consequences of rejecting the planning application, "Namely the severe detriment to both the football club and the community as a whole."

Work to start on new leisure centre

BUILDERS are expected to begin the two years work on Dorchester's new sports hall and leisure complex as early as September.

Plans to convert the old Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre pool have taken various guises with a survey finally acknowledging a need to replace the building with a sports hall and extra car parking.

The proposals for the new facilities, which will be open to the public at all times, already include a new 25 metre, six-lane pool with a 150-seat spectator gallery, learner pool, dance studio and fitness suite.

West Dorset District Council Community Enabling Manager Nick Thornley said: "Agreeing the details of the second phase of the overall project, to include the new sports hall, and finalising the lease details has resulted in a short delay. But we are looking forward to work starting very soon and giving West Dorset residents a fantastic leisure complex to enjoy."

The original proposal for the second phase of work, which deals with the existing Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre buildings, was to convert the redundant pool hall into additional educational facilities and continue use of the existing sports hall.

Following a survey of the current building and discussions between the district council, county council and trustees and governors of Thomas Hardy School, proposals were put forward to replace the building.

The work will be phased so the school and public can continue to use the existing sports hall while work is completed.

The new sports hall is expected to be completed towards the end of 2012.

Headteacher of The Thomas Hardy School and Chairman of the Swimming Pool Project Board, Dr Iain Melvin said: "This has been a long-term project and it is indicative of the strength between the partners that we have found a solution that is so advantageous to the community and the school.

"The levels of provision for leisure in Dorchester will be exceptional."

The district council's Executive Committee received an update on the project at its meeting on Tuesday.

Quiz raises £1,300

LECTURERS and governors were put to the test by their students at Kingston Maurward College, to boost charity coffers by more than £1,300.

A quiz involving some 100 campus staff and open day tombolas and public activities were organised by levels two and three diploma in administration students at the Dorchester campus.

The level two students chose to support the charity Charcot-Marie Tooth Disease as one of them suffers from the condition, while those on the level three course opted for the Weldmar Hospicecare Trust.

Council back plans for merger

WEST Dorset councillors have backed plans for a "merger" with Weymouth and Portland council that would save £8.5million.

The proposals would see West Dorset District Council's workforce join up with Weymouth and Portland Borough council to deliver services across both areas, marking the biggest change to local government in the district for 35 years.

Weymouth and Portland councillors backed the proposals at their Management Committee last week and must now be approved by their full council tonight (July 22nd).

West Dorset councillors heard yesterday how the move, which has not been done anywhere else in the country, would protect and improve services and save around £8.5million over the next five years.

The merger would mean a single officer structure for both councils, including one chief executive and management team instead of the current two.

The joint workforce would deliver services to 162,000 residents, over 6,100 businesses and the millions of visitors to the areas governed by the two councils.

West Dorset District Council Leader Robert Gould said: "We would continue to be two separate authorities, each setting its own budget and council tax. Both would still be able to deliver the services that local people want in the way that is most appropriate for their area.

"But I believe we will be stronger together - the partnership will give us the opportunity to learn from each other and protect valued local services at a time when our government funding is about to fall significantly."

Kids charity website could help with summer plans

A LEADING children's charity is signposting Dorset families to a summer of fun thanks to a new website from a local project.

The Barnardo's Parent Support Adviser Service works with families to encourage children to overcome challenges and achieve their potential.

One of the most popular ways to engage with parents has been through the provision of free activities such as circus skills, arts, crafts, picnics and storytelling.

Barnardo's has organised a wide range of events throughout July and August, details of which can now be found at www.barnardos.org.uk/dorsetpsa.

The website also includes a description of the service and how it can help, as well as contact details for local staff.

Managed by Barnardo's South West and funded through Dorset County Council, the PSA project supports parents with their children's social, emotional and behavioural problems in order to improve levels of educational attainment.

It also helps parents to find support to deal with drug or alcohol misuse, marital or financial difficulties, domestic abuse, imprisonment, bereavement or disability.

Project workers cover Beaminster, Blandford, Bridport, Christchurch,

Corfe, Dorchester, Ferndown, Gillingham, Lyme Regis, Purbeck, Shaftesbury, Sherborne, Sturminster Newton, Weymouth, Portland and Wimborne. Barnardo's children's services manager Jeremy Coombe said: "Our teams offer free and non-judgemental advice to all families of all backgrounds."

"One of the best ways to reach out to parents and understand their needs has been through our holiday activities scheme. Families can access our support in a fun and informal environment while their children enjoy learning new skills and making new friends.

"We hope the new website will encourage even more people to have a look at what we have to offer."

For further information on the Parent Support Adviser Service, call 01305 250161 or email jeremy.coombe@barnardos.org.uk

CLA queries RSPB kestrel claims

CLAIMS that intensive farming is to blame for a sudden drop in kestrel numbers have been questioned by the Country Land & Business Association (CLA).

Reacting to an RSPB comment published in a national newspaper on Monday, CLA South West Director, John Mortimer, said: The RSPB has - once again - gone for the knee-jerk reaction of blaming farmers for the decline rather than look at the real reasons."

The RSPB comments were published in a national newspaper after the latest Breeding Birds Survey was published by the British Trust of Ornithology. The survey, which uses information collected by volunteers and enthusiasts, recorded a 36 percent drop in kestrel numbers. The RSPB suggested it was down to "intensive farming" as well as "pesticides and cold winters".

"The BTO report states that the kestrel population has only declined recently and that it was stable between the start of the survey in 1994 until around 2005."

"Clearly, farming has not become more intensive in the past five years - in fact, with the introduction of the Single Payment Scheme, the opposite is actually the case."

"We currently have some 70 per cent of farmland in England covered by agri-environment schemes - so it seems to be nonsense for the RSPB to blame intensification for the problem," said Mr Mortimer.

Hospital launches new thrombolysis service

DORSET County Hospital in Dorchester has launched a new 24-hour treatment service for stroke sufferers.

Across the county of Dorset, about 1,500 people will have a stroke each year and of these about one third will die and one third will have some disability, while the remaining third are left severely disabled.

More than 10,000 people in Dorset are living with the long-term consequences of stroke.

Clot-busting drugs must be given within three hours of stroke symptoms starting to give people the best chance of recovery, and they can only be given to people who have had certain types of stroke. This is called thrombolysis.

Every year approximately 350 people in West Dorset will be admitted to Dorset County Hospital (DCH) having had a stroke. And for the last four years the Stroke Team has provided a Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm thrombolysis service.

This month the team has launched a round the clock 24-hour thrombolysis service.

By Anita Harries

ice so that people in West Dorset will now be able to get this treatment closer to home no matter what time of day or night they have their stroke.

The Dorset Cardiac and Stroke Network (a partnership of local NHS trusts, stroke patients and support groups) have led the development of the thrombolysis service across all hospitals in Dorset and have provided training for doctors and nurses, and supported the Diagnostics Team at DCH in training all of the on-call radiographers in carrying out CT scans for stroke patients.

These scans can now be seen on a laptop by the stroke consultant to assist in accurate diagnosis of the type of stroke.

The installation of a telemedicine system in the DCH Emergency Department means that a stroke consultant can now be contacted any time via a laptop link which allows them to see and talk to the patient and emergency team without actually being present in the department.

The launch of the new 24 hour thrombolysis service will dramatically improve the chances of recovery from a stroke for those who are eligible to receive it.

These clot-busting drugs need to be given as soon as possible after a stroke, ideally in the first hour, so it is vital that people recognise and respond to the signs of a stroke quickly by dialling 999.

DCH Consultant Stroke Physicians Dr Rob Williams and Dr Harald Pröschel emphasised the importance of speedy treatment.

Dr Williams said: "Every minute that passes after symptoms start, two million brain cells die. This clot-busting treatment can help to reverse the damage caused by stroke."

Dr Pröschel added: "The earlier it is given, the more effective the treatment is, so I urge people to learn the FAST check."

Face - Can the person smile? Has their mouth or eye dropped?

Arm weakness - Can they raise both arms?

Speech problems - Can you understand what they are trying to say?

Time to call 999 if you spot any of these symptoms

The role of the local ambulance service is also vital in getting patients to hospital as fast as possible.

South Western Ambulance Service has been at the forefront of developing better stroke care, leading work on a national level.

Deputy Clinical Director Adrian South said: "The ambulance service has been working for the past six years with the hospital to enable an ever increasing number of patients to receive clot busting treatment following a stroke."

"This fantastic development at Dorset County Hospital means that Dorset is now the first county in the South West where thrombolysis is available 24/7."

The question of thrombolysis was raised at the NHS Dorset Health Question Time event held earlier this year. The event saw over 60 people attending the Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy in order to find out about local health services.

MOOSE members with the Fire and Emergency Support Service vehicle

Red Cross to the rescue

THE British Red Cross Fire and Emergency Support Service, delivered in association with Dorset Fire and Rescue, aims to provide practical and emotional support to those affected by fire or flood.

The service is delivered by specially trained Red Cross volunteers and offers food, clothing, toiletries, access to a telephone, help with looking after children and pets, and shelter in the specially adapted fire and emergency support vehicle.

These same volunteers can also provide emotional support, information and advice on finding temporary accommodation, and assistance in producing an inventory of lost or damaged items. The service is free to the people receiving it, all costs being met by voluntary contributions to the Red Cross.

Since its launch in March of this year, this service has already helped more than eight families across Dorset.

One of the organisations who have helped with the funding of this much needed vehicle is the ladies of Dorchester Moose, who handed over a cheque for £240 in May.

The money was raised by holding a tombola and lucky dip at events such as Dorchester's Christmas Cracker, along with a stall on Weymouth sea front.

As a reward for their donation, the ladies were shown around the vehicle before one of their Wednesday evening meetings.

Moose member Debbie Smith said: "The vehicle is packed with everything you could possibly want during an emergency, including food such as tins of beans and pot noodles, and shoes and clothing in all sizes."

"We have decided this is such a worthwhile cause we shall continue to support them over the next twelve months."

Dorchester shows compassion for animals

■ JOYCE D'Siva and Anna Celeste Watson meet the Mayor of Dorchester, Councillor Leslie Phillips

By Anita Harries

PEOPLE across the county town were invited to join Compassionate Dorset for the Eden Project's "The Big Lunch" held in the Borough Gardens, Dorchester.

In aid of Compassion in World Farming, the fundraiser was hosted by dedicated supporter and local contact Anna Celeste Watson, to raise money to help ensure higher welfare conditions for animals farmed for food.

The event was officially opened by the Mayor of Dorchester, Councillor Leslie Phillips, and his wife Vonty, before an emotional and hard hitting speech by Joyce D'Siva, the Public Affairs Officer for Compassion in World Farming.

She highlighted the work carried out by the group and their mission to end factory farming by 2050.

They want the world's 50 billion chickens reared for meat out of cramped, dark sheds, and the world's six billion laying hens out of cages.

They aim to end the long distance transportation and export of live animals, end the use of cages and crates for sows and put a stop to painful mutilations such as tail docking and the tooth clipping of piglets.

The Big Lunch aimed to bring together a community of farm animal lovers to enjoy a picnic in the bright sunshine.

As well as an abundance of literature on the subject, there was a bake sale, a raffle, face painting for the children and funky farm animal themed designer t-shirts to buy.

And while people sat on the grass enjoying their picnics, they were able to listen to the wonderful acoustic guitar music of Sky TV Presenter Nick Ashron.

For more information on Compassion in World Farming visit the website www.compassionatedorset.co.uk or www.ciwf.org. Or you can email their supporter services on supporters@ciwf.org.

Bands meet for twinnings' concert

■ THE two bands with Mayor of Dorchester, Leslie Phillips, in front of the Borough Gardens' Victorian Bandstand

THE superb sound of brass bands playing filled the Borough Gardens in Dorchester as the town's very own Durnovaria Silver Band played a joint concert with their counterparts from Lubbecke – the Schutzen Musik Corps.

Since twinning between the two towns began in 1973, the bands have exchanged visits on countless occasions and provided many hours of musical enjoyment in both countries.

Over here for a long weekend, the band from Lubbecke played for an hour in the bandstand.

Among their repertoire were songs from the musicals including My Fair Lady and Mary Poppins.

It was delightful to sit in the sunshine and listen to this young band play, and they were extremely good.

The concert was introduced by the Mayor of Dorchester, Councillor Leslie Phillips, who is also president of the Durnovaria Silver Band.

Extending a welcome to the guests from Germany, he hoped that those who had come along would gain as much pleasure from the music as from their wonderful surroundings.

Durnovaria's very own Liz Carter led her players in a rousing rendition of the German National Anthem before the two bands continued playing together well into the afternoon.

Rotary host charity auction

by Anita Harries

THE Rotary Club of Dorchester Casterbridge have been raising money for Rotary International's worldwide appeal to eradicate Polio by holding a charity auction.

The auction, which took place at Kingston Maurwood Agricultural College, saw a grand total of 50 lots open to bids from the assembled guests.

Attended by the Mayor of Dorchester, Councillor Leslie Phillips and his wife Vonty, guests were treated to a welcome drink and a buffet before the serious business of the evening began.

An emotional appeal by Keith Barnard Jones for people to dig deep into their pockets and give generously preceded the auction.

He said: "The last hurdle is always the hardest. Eradication of polio is almost complete, but we need to reach those children living in the remote outposts of the countries where polio still exists, before our job is over."

There followed a superb evening of bidding fun.

In charge of the proceedings was Garry Batt of Dukes Auction House. Lots included a two course Sunday carvery for two at the Fox Inn, Ansty, and a Harbourside Sunday lunch experience for two at Vaughan's in Weymouth, hampers, wine, whisky and a novelty celebration cake. Boat trips, car trips, pictures, bags, first edition books, the list was endless, with some items being snapped up with far more enthusiasm than others.

Award created for Zambian student

A ZAMBIAN student at Kingston Maurwood College has received an accolade created especially for him, in recognition of his hard work and dedication.

Emelio Mbozi was presented with "The Principal's Award for Dedication to Learning and Self Improvement" at the college's annual prize-giving ceremony.

The 32-year-old has just completed a two-year National Diploma in Agriculture at the land-based Dorset campus and has returned home to Zambia for the first time since starting his studies.

"We have a range of prizes for our best students every year, but there wasn't one that applied to Emelio under the current categories," said Tim Stephens, head of agriculture, countryside and food at the college.

"But we felt his special qualities should be recognised so we created an award for him, and Novartis Animal Health kindly sponsored it."

Emelio, who works as a government regional veterinary assistant in his home country, said at the ceremony he was looking forward to seeing his family again and hopes now to be promoted to livestock officer.

He travels between farms in southern Zambia administering vaccinations to cattle.

"I feel very honoured to get this award," he said. "When I first arrived in the UK I thought it cold and the food strange."

"But I will miss Dorset and the friends I made here."

Mr Stephens said: "Emelio impressed us because he came to an obviously very alien country to study in a foreign language, and took it all in his stride."

"He has been an inspiration to us and his fellow students."

More than 115 further education students received awards at this year's prize-giving ceremony.

Fundraiser flies high for county hospital charity

A DEDICATED father has raised £390 for the Children's Services Fund, part of Dorset County Hospital Charity, by doing a sponsored skydive.

Laurence Davis' daughter was only 18-months-old when she was rushed into the Kingfisher Ward at Dorset County Hospital for urgent treatment.

While she was only there for a couple of hours, receiving treatment that returned her back to her healthy self, the Davis family have wanted to help other children and staff on Kingfisher Ward by taking on some fundraising activities for them.

This is when Laurence decided to complete a sponsored skydive.

He took to the skies at Dunkeswell Airfield in East Devon and, with the support of family and friends, has raised a substantial amount for the hospital charity.

Magna wins award

MAGNA Careline Ltd is celebrating after achieving the latest accreditation from the Telecare Services Association (TSA), the regulatory body for the UK's telecare industry.

Part of the Dorchester-based Magna Housing Group, Magna Careline Ltd became one of the first 15 providers in the country to be accredited to the new code, which is used by telecare providers to ensure quality standards.

Careline's general manager, Tanya Grant, said: "The accreditation to our regulatory body underpins the quality of service we deliver to our customers."

"It's great news for the Magna Careline team who have worked hard to achieve this accreditation. It was a rigorous two-day audit by independent inspectors and came just days after we moved from Hollands House in Poundbury Road, Dorchester, to the Poundbury Business Centre."

Magna Careline is a telecare monitoring service used by thousands of people across Dorset and beyond, to Plymouth in the west, West Sussex to the east and Wolverhampton to the north. As well as helping people to retain their independence in their own homes, the service also handles calls for commercial customers to provide business continuity 24 hours a day and offer protection for lone workers.

Magna Careline is an industrial and provident society and has been trading since 1989. Its chairman is the Mayor of Dorchester, Leslie Phillips MBE, who has been involved with Careline since its inception.

Great support for summer fete

■ MAYOR of Dorchester Leslie Phillips and his wife Vonty with dedicated volunteers Gladys Gundry and Dot Hand

■ THE beautiful Lyme Alpacas in their debut appearance

LOCAL celebrity Martin Clunes was invited to open this year's summer fete in the grounds of the Joseph Weld Hospice.

Incredibly popular as both a celebrity and a person, nothing is too much trouble for this television star as he willingly signs countless autographs and poses for equally as many photographs with his growing army of fans.

The Weldmar Hospice-care Trust is a cause close to his heart and he always gives freely of his time, a genuine smile firmly in place at all times.

Opened by the Mayor of Dorchester, Councillor Leslie Phillips, thousands of people flocked to what is probably one of the Weldmar's biggest fundraisers of the year.

He said: "I would like to thank everyone for their tremendous support today, but we must ensure this support continues throughout the year.

"I must also thank all the staff, the doctors and the nurses, who do such a wonderful job looking after the patients, and all the amazing volunteers without whom events like this would not take place."

By Anita Harries

Countless stalls filled every inch of the grounds, selling everything from books and toys to plants and bric-a-brac. There was also a whisky draw, wine draw, grand tombola, raffle and a silent auction.

Static displays featuring the "Golden Wings" Honda motorbikes, Vehicles of Yesteryear, the "Spirit of the Air" Volkswagen Club, and for the first time the beautiful Lyme Alpacas joined some first class arena events.

Starting with the lovely music of Chris Groves and Brian Inkpen, a display by the Honeysuckle Hydrotherapy Agility Dog Display Team had everyone clapping and cheering.

There were also performances from The YMCA Gymnastics Club and the Cheer Leaders, Belly Dancers and Street Dancers of Distinction and the L&B Line Dancers.

And as a final treat for all those who stayed to the bitter end, the Grand Summer Raffle and other prize raffles were drawn by popular actor, writer and director Julian Fellowes, another great supporter of the Weldmar Hospicecare Trust and the great work they do.

All care and services provided by the Weldmar Hospicecare Trust are provided without charge and are available to everyone who requires the special care offered, whether in their own homes, as a patient in the Joseph Weld Hospice, or at their Day Hospice Centres. They rely heavily on the support of the local community to raise funds to meet these running costs.

This is why events like the Summer Fete are so important.

Manned entirely by volunteers, and with all items for sale or as prizes generously donated, this goes a long way towards helping make ends meet.

Memories come alive thanks to Age Concern calendar

DORSET'S Living Memories is a project created by Age Concern Dorchester which has produced an on-line archive of the county from the memories of people who spent their childhood, working lives and retirement in Dorset.

This spans a period of 100 years from the beginning of the 20th century to the present day, and has been a huge success.

So good are many of the photographs contained within this archive, the decision was taken to create a calendar for 2011 using 13 of the pictures from the website.

These have all come together with stunning effect, and everyone at Age Concern is more than pleased with the results.

Choosing the photographs was no easy task as many were of such a high standard, but choose them they did, and the finished article is now on sale.

Rowan Cottage regular Joyce Ray was tickled pink when one of her pictures was selected.

She said: "It's all very exciting. Who'd have thought I'd be a calendar girl at 87."

If you are looking for an early Christmas present, or a calendar that is just that little bit different, they are now for sale at Age Concern Dorchester for £4.99.

Numbers are limited as only 200 copies are available.

If you want to see all of the photos and read the fascinating stories that make up Dorset's Living Memories, visit www.ageconcern-dorchester.org.uk/memories.

■ CALENDAR girls Joyce Ray and Peggy Voss admire their photographic contributions

Feel good this Sunday

AGE Concern Dorchester will be holding their monthly "Feelgood Sunday" session this Sunday (July 25th).

Feelgood Sunday gives people the chance to enjoy a feelgood film and refreshments for a relaxing Sunday afternoon.

This month's feelgood film will be "The Full Monty".

Feelgood Sunday starts at 2.30pm in Rowan Cottage, 4 Prince of Wales Road, Dorchester. For £2.50, people can enjoy a film, their choice of tea, coffee, juice, sherry or wine. All over 18s are welcome.

For more information, contact Hilary on (01305) 269444.

Free swimming scheme cut short

FREE swimming for under 16s and over 60s at Dorchester's Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre is to end early after the Government withdrew national funding.

The sessions for young and older people was due to continue until March 2011, but the Government recently announced that funding for the free swimming initiative will end immediately.

However the district council is looking to continue the scheme until the end of the school holidays.

A report being considered by West Dorset District Council's Executive Committee later this month will recommend that the free swimming scheme at Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre continues until September 5th 2010, so children can benefit during the summer holidays.

The normal pricing policy will then resume, including the usual free swimming for children aged four and under.

Earlier this year, the district council won funding from the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA) to fund free swimming lessons for teenagers and people aged over 60 who can't swim.

Despite the ASA's funding being cut, the district council is hoping to finance the lessons until March 2011, along with free swimming for people with a disabled leisure pass at Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre.

It is also recommended that the district council continue to provide its own funding to Bridport Leisure Centre and Beaminster Community Pool Association so these pools can continue to provide free swimming for people aged 16 or under and 60 or over until March 31st 2011.

West Dorset District Council Community Enabling Manager Nick Thornley said: "The free swimming scheme has been very well received by customers and we have seen a significant increase in the number of people going swimming, so we are disappointed that the scheme is coming to an end."

"In April, limited free swimming was launched for one year only at the pools in Bridport, Beaminster and Sherborne but because the district council, rather than the Government provided the funding, they will be able to continue until March 2011."

The district council has given Bridport Leisure Centre £30,000 so both age groups can swim for free on Saturdays and Sundays.

Until September 2010, Beaminster Community Pool Association is offering free swimming for under 16s on Saturdays at 10am and Wednesdays from 4pm, thanks to a £3,000 grant.

Dorset's 'No Excuse' road safety campaign to go region wide DORSET'S year long road safety campaign has been such a success that forces across the South West are now taking up the scheme.

For two weeks, police forces across the South West region will be mirroring Dorset's road safety campaign 'No Excuse'.

Operation Vortex started on Monday and will be running until the end of the month.

Dedicated teams of road policing officers - using unmarked cars and motorcycles - will patrol a wide variety of roads across the South West, in a concerted effort to reduce injury road traffic collisions by improving driver behaviour.

In Dorset, the year-long 'No Excuse' campaign has been running since January this year.

It aims to reduce casualties by tackling the main types of driver and motorcyclist behaviour known to cause death or serious injury.

These incorporate the 'fatal four' of speeding, not wearing a seatbelt, distractions - especially using a mobile phone while driving - and driving under the influence of drink or drugs.

Chief Inspector Bob Nichols, Head of Dorset Police's Traffic Unit, said: "Together with our neighbouring forces we are sending out the clear message that motorists, flouting the rules, are likely to be caught anywhere throughout the entire region.

"The intention is to get motorists at all times to concentrate 100 per cent on their driving behaviour when behind the wheel - not just when a marked police car is in sight.

"With our 'No Excuse' enforcement, education and media campaign and the region's Operation Vortex we want to ensure a long-term change in driver behaviour.

"Our aim is to make Dorset's roads safer. We are working very hard to reach this goal and, with the co-operation of motorists, we can reduce the tragedy of serious injuries and deaths on our roads."

St John's volunteer on his way to Buckingham Palace

A COMMITTED St John's Ambulance volunteer from Bridport will visit Buckingham Palace in September after becoming a Serving Brother of the organisation.

Paramedic Phil Lathey is celebrating a double success after also receiving his award for 25 years service to the organisation.

The Serving Brother award is considered as the St John's equivalent of a knighthood and is only presented to a handful of people each year.

Mr Lathey said: "It means a great deal to me, its recognising the work I have done over the years and it is a great honour to be nominated as a Serving Brother. I never thought I would ever achieve this, its something that only a few people ever get and I am just lucky that I have been nominated for it.

"It's one of the highest honours you can achieve, and it's the highest that most normal members will get to."

And despite only being allowed to volunteer until retirement age, Phil hasn't ruled out receiving further long service awards.

"I have got another 15 years that I am allowed to do but after that I will have to retire I expect, but there are talks of letting us go to 70. If I am still able to walk and talk and everything else I will continue on and I might get my 40 years service yet and if I work on it I might even get my 50 years," he added.

TLC awarded charity status

GET CONNECTED | Project Co-ordinator Leon Edwards receives the TLC's new laptop from BT regional manager Michael Dunn

BRIDPORT TLC celebrated its new charity status last week and can now continue providing the area with its valuable service.

The new status will allow the award-winning recycling project, run by volunteers, to apply for more funding opportunities.

The project, which has been running since 2006, is run by volunteers including members of the homeless community and people with mental health issues.

As part of its celebrations last week the group was presented with a new laptop from BT as part of its Community Connections program. The program provides laptops and broadband connection to successful community organisations and charities.

Leon Edwards, project co-ordinator, said: "Bridport TLC helps the community divert a whole range of non standard recyclable materials away from landfill, finding repair and re-use options such as our community workshop and scrap-store, or local recycling streams. There's no reason why every town couldn't have a community based recycling project. The BT Community Connections award will help us with our work and connect us with other similar projects across the UK."

Michael Dunn, BT regional manager, said: "The panel of judges were impressed with this unique and interesting project. Bridport TLC helps divert tons of material away from landfill every week and, at the same time, opens new opportunities to its broad range of volunteers. BT Community Connections helps and supports grassroots initiatives such as this which make a tangible difference to peoples lives."

Atruen, the Guzzler and the Rock Pool

■ THE evil Guzzler surrounded by his minions

FROM amidst the chaos of the final dress rehearsal emerged a wonderfully original play, written and performed by the children of Damers First School.

During two special workshops, pupils from years three and four created their very own story using the framework of the popular C.S. Lewis story "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe."

Using their imaginations, the children based their characters on those from the book, but added their own special touches.

Weaving their own particular brand of magic, they created a fantasy world entered through a rockpool, where the bad guy was a remarkable creature called the Guzzler and the good guy an angelic being called Atruen.

Each class took responsibility for one of the six episodes contained within the play, and so Atruen, the Guzzler and the Rock Pool was born.

The play took place on a school's Enrichment Day trip, where a group of children ventured into a rock pool, discovering a world devoid of nature, where barren landscapes replaced the beauty of the seasons, and where the evil Guzzler was slowly sucking the life from his surroundings.

The four heroes, Theo, Will, Emma and Takara, faced many challenges in this land they called Sparania, before bringing about the return of Atruen and spring and putting an end to the wicked Guzzler for ever.

Atruen, the Guzzler and the Rock Pool is absolutely amazing, from the moment the children enter the Rock Pool to the return of Atruen the healer.

Carefully thought out by the children, there were clever

by Anita Harries

touches throughout made all the more remarkable when you consider the tender ages of the children involved.

The four main characters each carried one of the elements in their quest to banquish the Guzzler – soil, water, fire and air – all chosen by the pupils as symbols of the natural world.

The dancing was outstanding, the singing was outstanding, and the children themselves were outstanding.

The delightful dancing logs accompanied by "Knock on Wood" and the devilish minions performing to Michael Jackson's "Bad" had all been brilliantly choreographed, as had every dance in the show.

And the singing was equally astounding, with a very poignant "One Voice" which featured two wonderful soloists. And whether one of the Guzzler's evil minions or one of the more gentle Good Folk, everyone acted their hearts out and made every parent in the audience very, very proud.

The other great thing about this play was that every child in years three and four played a part, whether dancing, singing or playing one of the main roles. These roles, too, were interchanged between the classes, allowing each child to develop the role and stamp their own particular characteristics on the part. This was first class entertainment from the very first word spoken to the grand finale and a rousing chorus of "Good Guys, Bad Guys."

Congratulations Damers School, both staff and pupils, on another excellent production.

• The Auction House of Bridport

What does an Aborigine fighting club, a Lalique vase, two Rembrandt etchings and some old photos of old lorries have in common? They were all sold in the well-attended sales at The Auction House of Bridport.

A retired Dorchester businessman was thrilled to learn that his Aborigine tribal club went under the hammer at £750+ buyers premium.

A Bridport man was surprised and pleased when his collection of transport photographs of realised £800.

A couple from the Marshwood Vale saw their Rembrandt etchings realise a total of £4,200.

And a Weymouth couple couldn't believe their luck when their Lalique vase sold to a telephone bidder in France for £8000.

At every sale there are several telephone bidders and on one occasion an American collector had to be woken at 3am and it is assured he was bidding from his bed!

It is the ability to sell such a wide variety of interesting and valuable items that clearly demonstrates the in-depth research and far-reaching marketing skills of the Auction House of Bridport. The prices realised are the same as, and in one case more than, the prices you would expect to achieve in the major salerooms of London & New York with much lower vendors commission.

UPCYCLING NOT RECYCLING!

IN A small workshop in Burton Bradstock, a new furniture company is helping homeowners revamp their properties with the latest trend in interior design.

Upcycling is a new phenomenon to hit British shores and has received national media coverage in recent weeks thanks to an episode of the BBC series Mary Queen of Shops.

The theory behind 'up-cycling' is to take an out of use or waste product and re-vamp it to give it a whole new lease of life.

When Tony Mason and Jan Thorpe's White Elephant Studio opened on a chilly November evening last year they had no idea about the practice, but it is now the key to their success.

Jan said: "The BBC2 documentary has really put it into the foreground now, the idea that you can transform your home with painted furniture is just very much in vogue at the moment."

"We didn't even realise it was upcycling to begin

AT THE White Elephant Studio in Manor Farm, Burton Bradstock, the latest phenomena in interior design is drawing interest from across the country. What started as a sideline furniture restoration business has now snowballed to be at the forefront of the current 'Upcycling' trend. This week View from reporter TOM GLOVER spoke to TONY MASON and JAN THORPE about their booming business.

with though, it was just something Tony had always wanted to do"

The studio is now packed from wall to wall with Tony's latest designs but the furniture business has only developed to its current level due to the high public demand.

The studio originally began life with its primary function being a lecture room for Jan's public speaking seminars with her own business 'Speechtrain.'

The furniture business almost began as a sideline but as more and more people saw their old family heirlooms transformed into something modern and contemporary, the greater demand became.

"With a lot of these items they have sentimental value to people," Jan explained.

"We had a guy come in the other day who owned a Welsh dresser and he was quite shocked to see we had one the same and how it looked."

"He only had the bottom of the Welsh dresser left and was using it in his shed for storing wellington boots and he had thrown the rest away."

"He looked quite sad about it because he didn't realise it could look like this."

Tony added: "Quite a few people remember the stuff as well. It's been in their house since they were children, whether it's a sideboard or a dresser, and they say now you've painted it its completely different"

Having spent 35 years as a decorator Tony had always wanted to spread his wings and release his more creative side.

Inspired by the quirky details of 19th century French furniture Tony made the leap into restoration.

"It's 100 per cent better than my decorating days; that was just a trade - it's an industry but this is a bit arty."

"It's a talking point and we have people come in and talk for hours about it," said Tony.

"It seems to be extremely popular around this area and also with a lot of people from London and the south east who are down here on holiday."

"We had one lady come down who said that if we took it back to her village in Sussex we would sell out in a week. I am amazed at the response and when people say things like that to you, you know it's going the right way."

The business has an obvious eco-friendly appeal and the recent publicity surrounding this has definitely been a factor in the White Elephant's growing success but Tony admits this wasn't the original idea behind the business.

"The eco side of it is a bonus in a way really, it's only in the last few months we have started to think that way."

"You see a lot of this stuff being burnt, a lot of the pubs burn it when they re-decorate and it's a wicked waste," he said.

The White Elephant is only a small business with Tony the skilled designer and Jan the driving force behind the business administration and presentation in the studio, which also features the work of local artists and unusual items to help finish off your home in style.

Despite just being a two-person team though, the pair do not fear the might of the multi national furniture giants that dominate the industry.

Jan said: "We offer furniture which is a lot better quality, if you go to a lot of the big names nowadays you are not even going to get wood, its pressed cardboard."

"This is proper wood and a better quality of stuff; the fact that it looked dreadful when it arrived doesn't matter, you turn it into something new and fresh and different."

"It's certainly value for money; there isn't a comparison. You could re-furnish your whole house for a fraction of the price, there is a big difference between our prices and buying something new"

Tony added: "You could turn your whole house round; it may be old furniture but it can look stylish and contemporary in modern building or you could put it in an old cottage and mix it with antiques because it has history."

"If you look on eBay nowadays, Welsh dressers are going for up to £200 and that's without being touched, and some of them are in a terrible state."

"Our idea is to buy things as cheap as possible and pass it on. We are pleased for people to come down and take a look even if they don't intend to buy. It just gives people ideas and they can go away with a new outlook on things."

Pigs might fly

THEY say pigs might fly, and I can't think of a more apt expression on hearing the news that the driving forces behind Pink Floyd, Roger Waters and David Gilmour, reunited on stage earlier in the month at a fundraising event in Oxfordshire.

The duo played a four-song set for the Hopping Foundation at Kidlington Hall, near Oxford. With just 200 people in the audience, the pair - augmented by a backing band - performed 'Wish You Were Here', 'Comfortably Numb', 'Another Brick In The Wall (Part Two)' and - oh, the irony! - Phil Spector's 'To Know Him Is To Love Him'.

When Pink Floyd reconvened for Live 8 in 2005, most fans had already given up on seeing their favourite band together on stage again. With the death of keyboard player Richard Wright three years later, this would be the one and only reunion of the classic line-up of the group.

Although Roger Waters (self proclaimed "creative genius" of the band, lead songwriter and trusty bass player) made many an overture to David Gilmour (genius guitarist and the group's primary vocalist) in the aftermath of the event, Gilmour made it clear that the band was over. Wright's death only confirmed this, with the guitarist being quoted as saying: "No one can replace Richard Wright."

In the meantime, diplomatic drummer Nick Mason has played with both Waters and Gilmour in the five years since that one-off reunion. If anything was stopping a post-Wright get-together, it was undoubtedly the fractious relationship between Waters and Gilmour.

Ever since Waters originally left the band and the remaining members dared to continue without him, things had been difficult (to put it mildly).

Richard Wright had been dismissed following the recording of The Wall, with Waters taking full control of the band resulting in the album The Final Cut, which sounded more like a solo effort than Pink Floyd.

When Waters quit, declaring the band a spent force, he went to the High Court to try to stop Mason and Gilmour continuing using the name without him. When they toured, Waters threatened to sue any promoter who dared bill them as Pink Floyd. Waters even issued a writ for copyright fees for the band's use of his flying pig, so the band responded by attaching a huge set of male genitalia to its underside to distinguish it from his design.

Roger's legal actions failed and the remaining pair re-recruited Richard Wright, going on two more hugely successful tours promoting two equally successful albums.

When the band got back together for Live 8, it had been 24 years since the four had shared a stage. You'd have to go back 11 years for the last time that just Gilmour, Mason and Wright had played together. This was a major coup for organiser Bob Geldof.

After some minor disagreements during rehearsals, the band performed a four-song set comprising of tracks from Dark Side of the Moon, Wish You Were Here and The Wall.

At the end of their performance Gilmour thanked the audience and started to walk off the stage, but Waters called him back and the band shared a group hug that became one of the event's most memorable images.

After the show Gilmour confirmed that he and Waters were on "pretty amicable terms" but nevertheless the band turned down a £136 million deal for a final tour. Waters did not rule out further performances, but only for a special occasion.

The following year, Gilmour stated that he wished to focus on solo projects and his family, and that his appearance at Live 8 was to help reconcile his differences with Waters.

But here's the good news - following their appearance together earlier this month - that might not be the end of it after all.

The duo are set to perform the band's classic track 'Comfortably Numb' at one of the gigs on Waters' forthcoming solo tour of The Wall.

According to a post on Waters' Facebook page, Gilmour agreed to join his bandmate again after Waters was persuaded to sing 'To Know Him Is To Love Him'.

"Well! You could have knocked me down with a feather," he wrote.

"I was blown away. How could I refuse such an offer? I couldn't, there was no way. Generosity trumped fear. And so explaining that I would probably be s*ite, but if he didn't mind I didn't, I agreed, and the rest is history... End of story. Or possibly beginning."

He added that Gilmour would decide in due course which show they would team up at. Waters' The Wall tour will hit the UK for seven concerts next year, including five dates at London's O2 Arena.

MARINE THEATRE HAS
THE LAST LAUGH, FIRST

Edinburgh Fringe comedy previews this Friday and Saturday at Lyme Regis venue

FOUR stand-up comedians heading to the Edinburgh Fringe Festival are stopping off at the Marine Theatre in Lyme Regis on Friday 23rd and Saturday, July 24th. Friday's bill is new-wave storyteller John Robins and Elis James, the face of new Welsh comedy. Saturday features Edinburgh favourite Mark Allen and James Sherwood, one of the country's foremost comedy writers. The comedy evenings start at 9.30pm, following the performance by Cabaret Chordelia, also previewing in Lyme before an Edinburgh run.

John Robins represents the new wave of comedy storyteller, skilfully weaving narrative, improvisation and punchy gags into his unique, self-effacing style. One of the most quick-witted, engaging comics on the circuit, he's the latest maverick to burst out of Bristol's hotbed of talent and he has stories to tell, banter to have, and bombs to drop.

In the space of a few short years, Elis James has become the face of new Welsh comedy. Cementing his growing TV and radio profile with appearances at the 2008 Edinburgh Fringe and at festivals across the world, Elis has also been supporting multi-award winner Rhod Gilbert on his massive UK tours. His style of laid-back, whimsical storytelling has made him a popular compère and performer at comedy venues all over the country.

Mark Allen has been writing and performing comedy for over ten years. For the last three years, he has performed three solo stand-up shows at the Edinburgh Fringe. Each show subsequently transferred to the Hen and Chickens Theatre and enjoyed sell-out runs, before variously going on to be performed at the Brighton, Manchester and Leicester comedy festivals.

James Sherwood has become one of the country's foremost comedy writers and contributes to radio shows across the BBC. Having originally made a name for himself on the live circuit as a topical comic, in recent years James has incorporated a number of self-penned, original comic songs into his act. Although this involves lugging a keyboard around with him, it's worth it - songs about grammatical inaccuracies and failed nightclub courtships have had audiences literally crying with laughter.

The Edinburgh preview comedy nights are at the Marine Theatre at 9.30pm on Friday 23rd and Saturday 24th July. Tickets cost £10 in advance, from Lyme Regis Tourist Information Centre on 01297 442138, online at www.marinetheatre.org.uk or on the door.

Poetry for Pleasure

by Frank McGarry

*It is easy enough to be pleasant,
When life flows by like a song,
But the man worthwhile is one who will smile,
When everything goes dead wrong.
For the test of the heart is trouble,
And it always comes with the years,
And the smile that is worth the praises of earth
Is the smile that shines through the tears.*

This is the opening verse of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem "Worthwhile". Smiling is so therapeutic; for the giver and for the receiver. But not every smile is genuine as William Blake explained in his poem.

The Smile

*There is a Smile of Love
And there is a Smile of Deceit
And there is a Smile of Smiles
In which these two Smiles meet*

*And there is a Frown of Hate
And there is Frown of Disdain
And there is a Frown of Frowns
Which you strive to forget in vain*

*For it sticks in the Heart's deep Core
And it sticks in the deep Back bone
And no Smile that ever was smil'd*

*But only one Smile alone
That betwixt the Cradle and Grave
It only once Smil'd can be
But when it once is Smil'd
There's an end to all Misery.*

How often do we here the comment, 'She is beautiful when she smiles'? This verse is by Hartley Coleridge.

*She is not fair to outward view
As many maidens be;
Her loveliness I never knew
Until she smiled at me.
O then I saw her eye was bright,
A well of love, a spring of light.*

Leonard MacNally wrote about another smiling maiden who lived on Richmond Hill.

*On Richmond Hill there lives a lass,
More sweet than May day morn,
Whose charms all other maids surpass,
A rose without a thorn.*

*This lass so neat, with smiles so sweet,
Has won my right good will,
I'd crowns resign to call thee mine,*

Sweet lass of Richmond Hill.

The writer of this piece of friendly advice prefers to remain anonymous.

Try Smiling

*When the weather suits you not,
Try smiling.
When your coffee isn't hot,
Try smiling.
When your neighbours don't do right,
Or your relatives all fight,
Sure 'tis hard, but then you might
Try smiling.*

*Doesn't change the things, of course -
Just smiling.
But it cannot make them worse -
Just smiling.
And it seems to help your case,
Brightens up a gloomy place,
Then, it sort o' rests your face -
Just smiling.*

Elijah Wolf and The Rubalous at Arts Centre

ELIJAH Wolf and The Rubalous will be performing at The Bridport Art Centre on Saturday, August 7th. Elijah Wolf is a local singer/songwriter whose songs have been picked up and played by influential DJs on BBC Radio 2 and BBC 6 Music ("Watermelon Sugar, I love it" - Zane Lowe; "His writing is amongst the best in the business" - Paul Gambaccini).

Elijah has now teamed up with his wife Ava Wolf who sings harmonies and three extremely talented local musicians, Jack Revy on drums, Tom Chapman on guitar and Logan Carter on bass. You may have seen Elijah Wolf play solo at one of the hundreds of gigs he has played in the last 2/3 years but the sound of the band is different. Elijah commented "The band came together in a very spontaneous and organic way in December. We play all of our own songs, this is a very different show from my solo performances."

It a very exciting time for us and we can't wait to present the new sound at the Art Centre."

The event has been put together as a fundraiser for the Bridport Art Centre.

Elijah and his wife Ava have helped raise money for the Art Centre before and they see it as an important place for the community and for artists and musicians alike.

Adam Sweet and Daisy Wardle will be supporting Elijah Wolf and The Rubalous

"Daisy Wardle is a local girl, we auditioned her at Beaminster school and were blown away", said Elijah. She has an amazing voice, she is very focused and it is very obvious that she is heading towards a career in music.

"We also have Adam Sweet who is a sensational performer who I met at an open mic night that I run, he truly is a musical force not to be missed."

"It is important that new talent gets an opportunity to be heard by the local community as these days what with the music industry being what it is a label will only be interested in a performer if they arrive as a fully developed package so gigging experience and exposure is vital to a performers development"

"Paul Hinds of No.10 Cafe Bar gave me my first solo gig and he continues to support new and young local musicians. He is very kindly sponsoring our event at The Art Centre helping us to cover costs so that we can keep ticket prices down. No.10 are also providing a bar which showcases their amazing cocktails."

Tickets are £5.00, £3.00 concessions and are available from The Art Centre, Bridport Music and Headful. Doors open at 7pm, music starts at 7.15pm.

Elijah wolf and The Rubalous new single Up and Down will be available to download from I-tunes on September the 8th. To see and hear more including episodes of Wolf TV go to elijahwolf.com

Gail's heading back to jail in Street shocker

CORONATION Street's Gail McIntyre (Helen Worth) is set to be banged up behind bars again later this year, according to reports.

Just months after being cleared for the murder of husband Joe, the Street's unluckiest lady will be held responsible for the suicide of Natasha Blakeman (Rachel Leskovic).

Gail risks prosecution for breaching data protection laws, and could lose her job for abusing her position after the meddling mum hacks into Natasha's medical records and discovers she aborted son Nick's baby.

A source told the tabloid: "Gail has always put her family first - and this will be no different. But her meddling will have terrible consequences."

A NEW drama about Live Aid has been announced as part of BBC Two's autumn line-up. Ian Hart will play music promoter Harvey Goldsmith opposite Domhnall Gleeson as Bob Geldof in the 90-minute drama When Harvey Met Bob. Kate Triggs of Great Meadow Productions said: "We were inspired by this story because it has, at its heart, a fantastic relationship that is funny, moving and borne out of the real drama of trying to achieve something huge and unprecedented. It's a film about two men who are prepared to think the unthinkable and achieve the seemingly impossible."

BRUCE Forsyth will only return to present the Saturday night for the new series of Strictly Come Dancing it has been claimed. The Daily Mail reports that an alternative male host would need to be found for the Sunday night results show after 82-year-old Bruce asked to scale back his hours. A source claimed: "Bruce has not signed his contract yet, but it all looks very positive. We are still looking at some scheduling issues that would see Bruce take a reduced role on the show. But if this happens, he will still be very much part of the series. He is integral to Strictly." Find out which stars are appearing on this year's Strictly Come Dancing.

PENNY Smith has revealed why she decided to leave GMTV after 17 years, saying: "I felt ready for a change but I was also very disappointed when I heard they were ditching News Hour. If I'd stayed I would still have had the news to read but that would not have been challenging enough." GMTV will be relaunched as Daybreak this September.

THE Saturdays have landed their very own Monkees-style TV show. The documentary series, called Just Can't Get Enough, hits screens this autumn and will see the girls "burst into song". ITV2 said: "We'll be with them in their dressing rooms, at home and on the red carpets. And in each episode the girls will burst into song to perform their latest hits."

MELVYN Bragg is taking the institution that is The South Bank Show over to Sky Arts, after ITV shelved the arts programme last year.

The show will relaunch in January 2011 to coincide with the South Bank Show Awards.

Melvin said: "At a crucial time for contemporary arts in Britain, it is essential to continue to celebrate and examine them on television and Sky Arts has provided a magnificent opportunity for us to make a difference. I greatly look forward to working with Sky Arts to bring these awards back to television screens."

Channel director John Cassy added: "Melvyn is the most passionate, enthusiastic and effective champion of the arts in the UK, so to have him on board is a tremendous honour."

Stephen Fry is to present a new five-part BBC series in which he'll explore his passion for language. He told the Radio Times: "I haven't seen a good documentary about language. I'm going to Beijing to interview the man who invented Pinyin, a phonetic version of the Chinese language. He's 105 years old... if he dies on me I'm going to be so annoyed."

A slice of horror in Sci-fi flick Splice

CATHERINE Zeta-Jones stars as housewife Sandy in romantic comedy The Rebound (15).

When Sandy realises her husband has been cheating on her, she hastily divorces him and starts a new life in New York with her children.

There she meets 25-year-old waiter and college student Aram, played by Justin Bartha, who soon becomes full-time nanny to her children.

Despite the 15-year age gap, Sandy and Aram become closer and closer until their relationship is rocked by an unexpected pregnancy scare.

Aram is thrilled but Sandy thinks it would be ridiculous to have a child at 40 with someone so much younger.

On discovering there was no baby after all, the couple go their separate ways... but, five years later, a chance encounter leaves the film with a happily ever after ending.

Released Friday, July 23rd

First Acts announced for this years Anonymous Festival

DORCHESTER'S free youth festival, Anonymous is back with a bang this year, and organisers Dorchester Youth Extra (DYE) and West Dorset District Council are delighted to announce that will be building on last years inaugural event with an even stronger line up of local and national talent.

The festival, on Saturday August 28th, will be headlined by The Stow, who will be launching their Autumn tour at the event after a summer of festival as well as being filmed for a Sky 1 show about them.

Anonymous will once again highlight the rich vein of talent in the local area and also link up with community organisations to show the wide range of activities available for young people in the county town. Joining The Stow, local bands Patchwork Mammoth, Thomas and the Mock-Ups, The Longest Day will be playing.

Young people from Dorchester Youth Extra (DYE) have been working hard putting together a day of music, activities, stalls and food with the support of West Dorset District Council and Dorchester Town Council.

Emma Scott, Community Development Officer for West Dorset District Council said: 'We have been looking to build on last years festival and get as many different groups as possible involved, showing what is out there for young people in and around Dorchester. There will be information stalls, a climbing wall, dancing, face-painting, a bouncy castle, DJ's, craft stalls and much, much more.

"DYE are keen to involve everyone, but some groups may have missed out on an invitation to take part, so if you are a community organisation working with young people and are looking for a platform we'd love to hear from you.'

Emma Scott can be contacted on 01305 252204. Anonymous 2010 will be held in Maumbury Rings on August 28th from 12.00 pm -10.00 pm.

The UK's finest hypnotist starts tour in Weymouth

DAVID Days has been practicing hypnosis for over 20 years, and has become a master of this superb talent. Performing to sell out crowds in a variety of venues all over the country has enabled his popularity to grow enormously over the past couple of years. The current 'hypnotist laughter show' appeals to every type of individual, regardless of age. Whether you actually take part, or just watch others being hypnotised you will be sure of a good time, and will be astonished by his talents and stage presence.

David Days' interest in hypnosis first began when he was just 14, when he witnessed Hugh Lennon's hypnotist show at the Weymouth Pavilion Theatre and ever since, it has been his passion and ambition to perform in the theatres doing his very own hypnotist show. He has put everything he has into perfecting his ability to hypnotise individuals, and creating fun shows for all to enjoy.

In addition to David's live shows, he has also made television history by becoming the only hypnotist to have ever performed hypnosis live on British television, and this record still stands today! This fantastic achievement happened when he hypnotised the 'boys from Blue', Duncan James and Simon Webb, on ITV's Ministry of Mayhem, back in 2004. If you would like to see this performance, the clip is available to watch on Youtube.

David is due to start a series of theatres next year, and is kicking this off with a one-off show at the Weymouth Pavilion Theatre.

"I cannot think of a better way to start the theatre tour than by performing in the very place I was once inspired by hypnosis. Hopefully this show will inspire others to also follow their dreams and ambitions, because anything is possible when you put your heart and soul into it", David continues to say "All the hard work and dedication has paid off and I can't wait to perform this show in my home town of Weymouth".

His manager, Tara Nix said "Not only is David a very talented hypnotist but his stage presence is fantastic too. He always tells me that it is the volunteers who make the show, which to an extent is true, however with David's witty humour and great timing the show is made even more entertaining and funny".

The Weymouth show is being held on August 13th, and also features supporting act, top Psychological Illusionist, Martin Rees, who will be performing a range of mind blowing and spooky illusions.

As a thank you to all the support David Days and Martin Rees have received within the Dorset area, the show will be at a largely reduced rate of just £12.50, so please do book early to avoid disappointment. Tickets are currently on sale now directly from Weymouth Pavilion Theatre Box Office, 01305 783225, or online at www.weymouth.gov.uk

If you would like to learn more about David Days, then please visit www.daviddays.co.uk, or for further information about the 'David Days Hypnotist Laughter Show' or future booking enquiries please contact his management team on 01258 454133.

International organist D'Arcy Trinkwon for Lyme Regis concert

The brilliant international concert organist D'Arcy Trinkwon will be playing the next recital on the recently installed Skrabl organ at St. Michael's Parish Church, Lyme Regis in aid of the RNLI and organ appeal on Wednesday July 28th at 7.30pm. The concert is part of the towns RNLI festival and organ appeal celebrity recital series and helping to raise funds for both charities.

Mr Trinkwon is renowned for his dedication and vision to bring the organ and its finest music to a wider public, his performances in festivals and concert series worldwide have brought him international acclaim. He has been described as "one of the outstanding virtuosos of his generation and an arch exponent of his art" and "the Nureyev of the organ" – a reference not only to his extraordinary technique, but also to the unique magic and passion with which he communicates his art. The London Musical Times wrote of his playing; "For anyone needing to be converted to organ music".

Challenge yourself for FORCE charity

THE Heritage Coast Challenge, now in its sixth year, was designed by David Jackson as a tribute to a friend who died of cancer. The group chose F.O.R.C.E in Exeter because their work in supporting patients and families brings immediate results to those undergoing cancer treatments.

The challenge is divided into three one day walks each featuring outstanding aspects of the heritage coast between Abbotsbury and Exmouth. The first day takes walkers from the Chesil Bank to Lyme Regis, the second and tougher day Lyme Regis to Sidmouth, Sunday an easy "family friendly" walk from Sidmouth to Orcombe Point, Exmouth. The group charge just £10 registration for one day and £15 for two or three. This covers a supporting mini bus and snacks along the way. They do ask that sponsorship is raised for F.O.R.C.E but understand that not everyone finds this easy so we don't set a lower limit.

Although participation is at walkers risk, the Heritage Coast Challenge group do provide a leader and back marker for the group so no chance of getting lost and, in general, they set a pace that makes this very real challenge fun as well!

Well behaved dogs on leads are accepted as long as they are fit enough... but this again is at your risk.

Be under no illusion, this is a real and satisfying challenge, 50 miles in three days is a real achievement but with full support and the opportunity to "sit out" a section if you need to, why not get fit and join in?

Full details from David or Ali on 01404 42228. Please note numbers are limited so first come first served.

Honda makes improvements to insight Hybrid

A NEW, top-of-the-range, EX model, featuring black leather upholstery and DVD Sat Nav and hands-free telephone equipment, has also been introduced to the Insight line-up.

The changes made to the Insight across the range are in direct response to the comments received from early customers and the media. The initial focus was on suspension, to which improvements have been made to address negative feedback on ride and comfort levels.

A number of chassis changes have been implemented, including: adjusting the recoil rate of the springs, changing the rear camber angles, altering the V-shape rear suspension brace and adjusting mounts. The amendments promise to deliver improved ride, handling and stability.

As well as these upgrades to suspension, Honda has added rear parking sensors to ES-model Insights and above, and has changed some trim to smarten the interior. Dashboard and seat colours have been changed to give a more uniform finish, and some plastics have been improved. Chrome rings now surround air vents, and the doors have been given a silver garnish feature.

There are also two new paint options for Insight customers, with the introduction of Dynamic Blue Pearl and Carnelian Red Pearl.

Pricing for the Insight starts at £16,325 for the SE model, but with Honda's current Affordable Driving consumer offer, the hybrid is available at £14,995 OTR until the end of September, making it even more attainable – and the least expensive hybrid on the market by a mile. The highly-spec'd EX model with leather upholstery starts at £20,215 OTR.

fax 01297 444981Škoda auto achieves record sales in the first six months of 2010

ŠKODA Auto reached a new sales record of 378,747 vehicles sold worldwide in the first half of 2010. This represents an increase of nearly 15% when compared to the same period of last year. In June alone, 71,320 customers purchased a Škoda (+8.3 percent).

"Škoda continues its growth trend with new record numbers. In particular, the brand has profited from high demand in China, as well as a positive trend in Western and Eastern European markets. In some countries however, the market remains weak after a difficult 2009. The second half of 2010 will bring great challenges but we are on an excellent path", said Reinhard Flegler, Member of the Board responsible for Sales.

The key driving force behind the increase in growth is the development of the Chinese market, which in June alone sold 15,158 vehicles, an increase of more than 51% when compared to the same month in 2009. From January to June 2010, 84,135 vehicles were delivered in China, 82.3% more than in the first half of the previous year.

Škoda overseas markets performed well in the first six months of 2010, increasing sales by almost 50% (25,000 vehicles). In Russia, twice as many cars were sold when compared to the same month of the previous year. In Western Europe (excluding Germany), the brand increased its sales by 34.5 percent to 117,283 vehicles. In particular, Škoda recorded significant growth numbers in Great Britain (+61.2%) and Spain (with the Canary Islands; +50 %)

In the Czech market, sales remain positive for Škoda: 5,743 vehicles were delivered in June 2010. This represents a cumulative increase of 16.6% when compared with 2009.

Škoda's second largest market (after China) is Germany where 13,343 vehicles were registered in June. Škoda was able to increase its registration figures to a total of 67,556 units, reinforcing the Czech Republic manufacturer as the number one imported brand in Germany.

The best selling Škoda model worldwide was the Octavia. From January to June 2010, sales of this model increased 20% to 158,024 cars. The Yeti (25,868 vehicles) and the Superb have also enjoyed outstanding sales. Škoda's flagship Superb saw an increase of almost 150% with 47,830 cars sold. Additionally, 111,967 Fabias and 14,900 Roomsters were delivered to customers.

Bikers warned of tyre 'squaring' dangers

As National Motorcycle Week kicks off riders are being warned of the dangers that continuous upright riding on fast straight routes can do to their bikes' tyres.

Long journeys on motorways can cause the meeting of the tyre's sidewall and tread to 'square-off', which gives a feeling of loss of grip when the bike is used on winding roads. Often on long journeys motorcyclists switch from the motorway to fast A- and B-roads, without knowing their bikes' handling is compromised.

Gary Hartshorne, motorcycle tyre technical specialist for TyreSafe, says the squaring-off phenomenon will always affect bike tyres because of their design, but if the bike is being constantly ridden on winding roads squaring-off will take longer to occur, meaning extended tyre life.

The type of journey covered isn't the only reason for squaring-off, as other factors can have an impact: "It also depends on the materials used, the compound of the tyre and the original profile of the tyre when new. Some tyres have a flatter profile to start with while others can be very pointy. The more 'pointy' they start out as, the more the squaring-off will become apparent as the tyre gets older," Gary Hartshorne says.

Tyre pressures can also affect the squaring, with both under- and over-inflation causing problems, as Gary Hartshorne explains: "If tyres are underinflated this will cause squaring off, as would running them overinflated, but then the width of the 'squared band' around the tyre would be narrower as the contact patch would be narrower in the first instance.

Tyre design means there is no cure for the squaring-off phenomenon, but once they're aware it might happen, riders can adjust their riding accordingly.

"It's important that motorcyclists make allowances for any unusual handling characteristics their bike might show when they leave the motorway," says Karen Cooke, director of safety for the Motorcycle Industry Association. "Keeping tyre pressures at recommended levels is one way to ensure safe riding, as is rider awareness."

Renault launches new cut-price Megane generation

THE sun might have disappeared behind a cloud or two, but Renault is turning up the heat on its rivals this summer with the launch of its new Mégane 'Generation', priced from only £10,995.

The new five-door Hatch version is available to order now, replacing the outgoing Extreme trim level, in either 1.6 100 petrol or 1.5 dCi 90 FAP diesel guise. Both models drive through five-speed gearboxes.

As part of its 'Vive Le Summer' promotion, which has just started, the new entry-level Generation 1.6 100 will be available for a limited time to retail cash buyers at just £10,995 on-the-road, a full £3,000 less than the recommended retail price. Outside of the offer, at £13,995 and £15,755 respectively, both models are still an impressive £860 cheaper than their predecessors.

In spite of the tempting prices, there has not been any skimping on specification when it comes to Generation's equipment levels. Among their core features are 4x15W radio CD with fingertip remote controls and aux input, air conditioning, cruise control, electric door mirrors and front windows, ESC, hands free keycard and speed limiter.

Customers can find further information at www.renault.co.uk, on Sky Guide 883, on Twitter www.twitter.com/renault_uk and on Facebook www.facebook.com/renaultuk.

Their overall score of 321 points saw them triumph by 40 points from Woodroffe School, Lyme Regis, with Dorchester's Thomas Hardy School third on 245 points.

There was also more success for the talented girls athletics teams at the English Schools Southern Finals held at Exeter.

The Junior Girls finished a very creditable second behind Parkstone Grammar School (308pts) with 269 points, with Clayesmore Prep School third.

The Inter Girls also performed well finishing third with 267 points, behind Sherborne School for Girls (294pts) and Parkstone Grammar School (284pts).

They hosted 85 competitors who had to complete a 1500m swim, 40km bike ride and a 10km run.

BustinSkin triathlete Alex Hopson won the race in a time of 2:08:21 with colleague Niall Laming just eight seconds behind. He finished eight seconds ahead of third placed Dan Whaites.

Tracey Cook was the easy winner of the ladies race in a time of 2:18:47, over five minutes ahead Elizabeth Hutson with Sarah Chaloner a further 10 minutes behind in third.

The winners received £100 vouchers for Mud Sweat n Gears and SOS Swim Shop, with the runners-up £60 and £40. They all also received Bloc sunglasses and event merchandise.

Chris Knight, Business Manager at the Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy, commented: "We were delighted to welcome the competitors of the BustinSkin Triathlon for the third consecutive year. The event has doubled in size from 2008 growing in popularity annually. We look forward to hosting more events like this in the future."

KNIGHTS TOPPLED

LYME REGIS GOLF CLUB with Steve Percival
HAVING been awarded a bye in the first round, the Lyme A team were anxious to perform well in their first match in the Stoke Salver scratch competition against Knighton Heath.

However, Captain Roger Seed also wanted to take the opportunity to "blood" some of the up and coming young players of the club in his eight man team.

Played at home in excellent conditions with the firm fairways continuing to add length to drives and with the greens running quick and true, scores were anticipated to be good throughout what proved to be a highly competitive match.

The morning format was foursomes, where each of the two players in the team take turns at the shots, Lyme ran out convincing victors by four matches to nil.

However, the afternoon singles proved to be a nail-biting contest. Ian Mudford concluded an excellent 2-1 victory over his opponent whilst Roger Seed convincingly overcame his by an overwhelming 5-4.

Scott Love went into the final hole one down but managed to salvage a half with an excellent bidie on the eighteenth green.

Similarly Ed Lawrence kept his head to also record a half. Although the remaining matches were lost, Lyme managed to achieve an overall match win by 7 - 5.

The Lyme team of; Roger Seed, Ian Mudford, Matt Searle, Scott Love, Richie Yorke, Tom Glover, Greg Matthews, and Ed Lawrence now wait with anticipation to hear who their opponents will be in the quarter final.

MEN WIN AWAY AT HIGH FLYING WELLWORTHY

ITS has been a very good week for both the men and ladies' league teams writes Paul Moffitt.

The mens championship team went to top of the table Wellworthy on Monday and came away with an impressive eight points. This is an important win as the championship team were getting a little too close to the foot of the table.

This now gives them a little breathing space but they must not take their foot off the accelerator just yet. The A team had a rest week but the B team had an excellent result against Weymouth Melcombe Regis taking all 10 points. If they push hard they could yet join the first division next year.

The ladies continue to go from strength to strength with a very handy eight points away to Wimborne. This confirms their position at the top of division 2, so come on girls division 1 beckons.

The ladies playing in the Edna Paisley league managed a four point win against Melcombe Regis. This has been a good year for the ladies in this league, a league that becomes more competitive year by year.

In the Percy Baker league Lyme W2 dropped a rare two points against Dorchester, although managing to win the fixture over all. This was a game punctuated by some very unseasonal weather, with many a dash for shelter to avoid a drenching. What's happened to summer?

Finally, Jan Parsons hosted 6 local clubs in her annual Lady Captain's Day this Friday.

The weather threatened but, apart from a brief shower towards the end of the afternoon, the Idies enjoyed a mainly sunny, if windy, afternoon.

Following the bowling the ladies enjoyed sandwiches, cakes and strawberries and cream finished off with an impressive raffle which raised in excess of £130. for the Club's charity.

A team from Lyme came out on top, namely Sue Rowe, Jill Wells, Joan Beavis and Margaret Bartlett who managed to stay ahead of the opposition from Chard; Chardstock; Bridport; Charmouth; Axminster and Westlands.

Jan thanked everyone who had helped in making the day a success, including some of the male members of the club who waited on the ladies' just for a change.

Jan also made various presentations to those ladies who have helped her during her year as Lady's Captain.

The recipients were Ann Allman, Vice Captain; Nola Stephens, Secretary; Lesley Broom, Treasurer; and Margaret Bartlett, Sue Wood and Kay Smith who had arranged the catering.

Swimming news

Malc to loop island

MALCOLM Greenslade from Lyme Regis, is amongst a mixture of participants from relative novice swimmers right up to seasoned athletes from the world of triathlon, open water and long distance swimming, who are gearing themselves up for the Brownsea Island Swim Challenge on Sunday, (25th July).

This event is a 4.6 mile circumnavigation of Brownsea Island in the tidal waters of Poole Harbour.

TOUGH TIME AHEAD | Lyme's Malcolm Greenslade will be getting to know the waters surrounding Brownsea Island.

Malcolm (49), said: "This open water distance is uncharted territory for me and although I still train regularly when I have time, I am conscious the mileage could be a real challenge and will require careful pacing."

Last year the event raised £9,500 for good causes, so to mark the start of Lifeboat week in Lyme Regis Malc has decided to raise funds for the RNLI by taking on the challenge.

As a keen water sports enthusiast, he spends a lot of time in or on the water and sees at first hand the work the RNLI does and the time the many volunteers put into training.

Anyone who cannot attend the many events held during lifeboat week in Lyme Regis, which runs from 24th July until 1st August, and wishes to make a donation to the RNLI can do so directly by visiting Malc's online fundraising page on www.justgiving.com/brownsea-swim. You can pay by credit or debit card, and the money will go directly to the RNLI. Where supporters are UK taxpayers, the charity will automatically receive 28% extra in Gift Aid. If you prefer not to use the online page give him a call on 01297 444739 to pledge your support.

CANNY EVERITT HOLDS HIS NERVE

Dorset Funeral Plan League
Premier League
Dorchester 124-3 beat
Weymouth 123 all out by 7 wickets

LOCAL derbies are either tense exciting affairs, or more often an anti-climax, and unfortunately for Weymouth it was the latter this time with Dorchester claiming a convincing victory over their neighbours.

Bowled out for just 123 with Rob Waite claiming 5-21 with a devastating spell of spin bowling, the Seasideers found it difficult to defend such a low total and with Lee Haynes in masterful form were beaten with 21 overs to spare.

Winning the toss, Dorchester skipper put their visitors in and Phil Morley trapped Jim Ryall (5) lbw early on. Although Johnny Armfield (18) made some headway when he was bowled by

SPIN KING | Rob Waite claimed 5-21 in local-derby victory

Andy Mead (3-41) Weymouth were in trouble at 49-4 with both Mead and Morley (2-47) having taken the top order out with a brace each.

Dean Janaway continued his recent good form with 34 to take Weymouth to 100-5 but he became the first of Rob Waite's five victims as he spun out the visitors' tail in a devastating spell of 5-21 in a ball less than eight overs.

With Xenon Ellis tying up the other end with 0-12 from seven overs Weymouth lost their last five wickets for just 23 runs.

Weymouth started brightly in reply with Dan Hutchens (1-40) trapping Pete Moxom (8) leg before, but once Haynes got his eye in, it was always going to be difficult for the Weymouth bowlers.

Andrew Fallon (1-16 off eight overs) bowled well and claimed the wicket of Dave Maslen (20) with the score on 41, whilst Michael Pearce (1-10) made a mess of Dan Belt's stumps to make it 61-3, but that was all the joy they had.

Haynes, who deservedly passed his half century with a six and eight fours was joined by Waite (16 not out), and they confidently saw Dorchester home with an undefeated partnership of 63.

The win keeps Dorchester top of the league, whilst defeat has seen Weymouth slip to third bottom.

Richards was understandably buoyant afterwards. "You have to go back a long way in the record books to find the last time Dorchester did the double over Weymouth. They have shown in some of their games what a good side they are and they have some excellent players so we are very pleased with the win and the 20 points to keep us at the top."

On Rob Waite's performance with the ball Richards said: "Rob has decided a change of career and bowl spin, and he showed in this match what an excellent prospect he is. He has decided to change his style whilst he is young enough from medium fast and with the help of Sean Walbridge and Paul Tweddle he is developing into an excellent left arm spinner."

The captain was also full of praise for Lee Haynes who has returned to play for the club for the next few weeks.

"Lee was a bit rusty and was playing himself back into form. He was the key man in holding the innings together and after an uncertain start really put his game together."

"This is a big home for us with five key matches starting with Weymouth, and I am pleased to have got off to a good start. It will put us in good stead for Parley next week."

Weymouth's captain Paul Payne said his side had let themselves down.

"We didn't score enough and that was down to our batting. We have not put enough partnerships together this season. There is no consistency to it and we are not able to build batting partnerships."

"Fair play to Dorchester, they bat all the way down and 123 was never going to be a competitive score. Dean Janaway did well again and was disappointed he didn't go on to make a big score. "We then had problems defending it as you can't set an overly attacking field. We've now played Dorchester twice this season and both performances have been two of our worst of the season."

One serious problem for Weymouth is a hamstring injury to Michael Pearce that is likely to keep him out for the rest of the season. He pulled up on the first ball of his fifth over and was unable to continue.

"It's not good," said Payne, "And I think that is it for Michael for this season. It's a pity because he is a valuable asset and one of our prime bowlers."

Division One
Winton Sports 76 all out lost to Beaminster 77-9 by 1 wicket

WITH no time to put on his cricket boots, Adrian Everitt walked purposely to the wicket in his shoes whilst his colleagues could hardly bear to watch as he faced Winton Sports most successful bowler Dean Baguley spell of ten overs (4-28).

Although he hasn't played for four years Adrian, playing alongside sons Will and Fred due to a player shortage, played them with assurance before son Will pushed one through the gully with the first ball of the next over and they scrambled home.

The pitch at Meyrick Park has been reported already this season, and once again it produced a low scoring game.

Winning the toss Winton decided to bat but found Richard Runyard (4-26), opening the bowling for the first time in devastating form alongside Simon Jones (3-21) and they ripped through the top order to leave them at 28-6.

Only Baguley (11) and A Williams with a defiant 27 prevented an even lower score being posted as Ross Baker (2-13) and Paul Martin (1-8) finished off the tail to dismiss the hosts for 76 all out.

Beaminster didn't start any better with Fred Everitt (2) and Chris Park (5) back in the hutch with seven on the board.

However Nick David and Jones fought back under huge pressure with fielders crowding the bat, but at tea at 46-2 Beaminster looked in a total control.

However Jones (21) was caught behind soon after the interval and then when David was run out going for a third run, Beaminster began to wobble at 50-4.

Runyard (16) looked to have settled things again but when he went on 69 and Baker followed, stumped charging down the wicket trying to hit the winning run they were 74-6.

Chaos ensued when it appeared Mark Gough had struck the two needed for victory and everyone was leaving the field when the scorer sent them back saying they were a run short. This sparked panic and Gough was caught before Seal completed a hat trick by nailing Brian Earl and Paul Martin.

However the Everitt's held firm to record Beaminster's second victory of the season.

Weymouth 2nd 270-7 beat Corfe Mullen 125 all out by 145 runs

WEYMOUTH 2nds bounced back with a convincing win over Corfe Mullen with veteran Sean Fitzgerald showing he has lost none of his guile with a watchful and faultless 95, whilst Veejesh Mote provide the injection into the Seasideers batting performance that saw them amass 270-7 off their allotted 50 overs.

Then Neil Walton (3-27) and Dave Trotter (2-35) ripped out the top of the visitors batting to set up an easy victory.

Captain John Ryan was pleased with his sides performance, particularly as first team calls and unavailability left him scratching for a side.

But the whole side played well and Ryan said: "It was a good all round team performance and having been forced into the situation, it has given me food for thought as I look at an eye for the future."

Batting first James Almond scored a quick 20 before he was out with the score on 28-1.

Fitzgerald who batted for all but three balls of the Weymouth innings, then gave the strike to Mote at every opportunity. The wicketkeeper batsman who has only just returned to the side hit 14 fours in his 76 that saw the pair put 113 for the second wicket.

The demise of Mote saw a little blip in Weymouth's middle order with the loss of Simon Mitchem (1), Trotter (9) and Craig Johnson (1), but Cameron Armfield came to Fitzgerald's aid with a good, solid innings of 32 that added 88 for the sixth wicket.

When Fitzgerald was out he had batted for 175 minutes and hit nine fours and a six.

Dave Trotter soon had Corfe Mullen in trouble removing Neil Stannard with his first ball and trapping Creswell leg before three balls later to leave the visitors on 5-2.

Weston was then run out before Walton bowled Walpole to make it 28-4.

Only Williams with 31 showed any real resistance and despite an unbeaten 22 from Laisley at the end as Corfe Mullen eventually capitulated for 125 all out.

Ryan threw young Charlie Allen the ball towards the end and he picked up a wicket finishing with 1-14 from six overs in a neat spell.

Division Two
Compton House 192-7 lost to Dorchester 2nd 284-8 by 92 runs

STUART Beasley starred as Dorchester got back to winning ways and almost certainly ensured Division Two cricket again next season.

He struck 91 including eight 6s and with support from Dave Herbert (36), Hugh Pryce (31), Ian Sibley (210, Jon Legg (24) and Steve Budd (34 not out) they amassed a huge total.

Compton House were never really at the races and although Millard scored 81 it was fairly pedestrian. Beasley also took the bowling honours with 4-55, whilst Herbert (2-16) chipped in at the end. Legg produced an economical 1-6 from seven overs.

Division Three
Cranborne 132-6 beat
Bridport 131 all out by 4 wickets

BRIDPORT'S batting let them down at Cranborne. On a very poor wicket they found runs hard to come by. Mark Smith and Ashley Nicholls were soon back in the pavilion but Liam Toohill put together a good innings of 47.

However he could not find anyone to stay with him as wickets tumbled on a regular basis, with only returning captain Sam Good able to give him support.

In reply Wes Lewis took two early wickets and bowled really well and adding a third victim later, whilst Nicholls also bowled with pace and accuracy without reward.

In fact so economical was Bridport's bowling and slick their fielding, that second place Cranborne had only reached 74-3 after 30 overs.

However their batsmen finally came good and they won the game with four wickets and five overs to spare.

Vice-captain Mark Smith said: "It was a very poor wicket and the outfield was very slow even going down the slope. I think 160 would have been a good total to defend on it, but we just didn't have anybody that could help Liam (Toohill)."

Suttons 2nd 126-8 lost to Martinstown 174-8 by 45 runs

MARTINSTOWN recorded back-to-back victories by completing the double over Suttons 2nds at Kinson.

Invited to bat on a very green slow strip, Martinstown batsmen laboured against an array of slow bowlers with only opener Ed Nichols and number five Danny Dancer showing the required patience before both succumbing in the 30's.

A well struck 19 from number ten Liam Banfield, (including a colossal gnome decapitating six into a garden at deep long off) ensured the fifth and final available batting point but 174 looked to be a below par total.

Chris Read (3-29) spearheaded the Martinstown fight-back in conjunction with his old opening partner Stu Fry (returning from a day's stint as an England net-bowler having thrice dismissed Yorkshire's England all-rounder Tim Bresnan).

Martinstown captain Nick Quintrell commented: "In defending a lowish total, it was imperative that we bowled and fielded well, and I couldn't fault the team in this regard. Chris (Read) and particularly Stu (Fry) bowled quickly putting them on the back foot, whilst Danny (Dancer) and Matt Rimmer dried-up the runs to a trickle with Matty Camp bowling some beautiful away swingers for his deserved four wickets."

"It was a real team performance - pressure was created with disciplined seam bowling and an intensity of purpose in the field that we sometimes fail to ignite."

"If we perform like that with the ball for the remainder of the season we will make life difficult for any opponents. We are yet to put together a polished display with the bat and this will be the priority ahead of our upcoming fixture with Portland Red Triangle."

Division Five
Corfe Mullen 2nd 153-9
lost to Weymouth 2nd 154-2 by 8 wickets

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD Harry Tucker repaid the faith of his captain Joe Trevett by hitting a superb 63 not out after he was promoted up the batting order as Weymouth 2nd's maintained control at the top of Division Five.

Tucker replaced his captain after the second ball of the inning when Trevett was bowled for four, but he showed no nerves as he and Sami Rathnayke (65) added 120 for the second wicket, before guiding Weymouth to an easy eight wicket win.

Winning the toss Trevett put the hosts in a good bowling from Rathnayke (3-27) from 11 overs), Gus Galloway (3-40) and Al Stirling (2-23) restricted the opposition to 153-9.

Trevett was pleased once again with his team's performance.

"We bowled really well and although at 20 overs we had only taken one wicket, they were only averaging 2.5 runs an over."

"Harry also did a brilliant job. He doesn't always get a chance to bat but I decided to give him his chance and he took it with both hands with a delightful innings."

Division Six
Abbotsbury 53 all out
lost to Wareham 145 all out by 92 runs

THIS was a huge disappointment for Abbotsbury after some improved performances in recent weeks. The Swans were hoping to give midtable Wareham a good game, and so it was for the first innings.

Wareham won the toss and opted to give the home side first use of the new ball. Grafton Straker took the opportunity well to collect 5-43, and backed up by Gary Pittman (3-35) and two more catches for Ryan Beesley, the visitors relied on 59 from their opener S. Bishop to reach 145 all out.

Abbotsbury took tea with good hearts believing they had a chance, but disaster was to follow. With Steve Patterson run out before there was a run on the board and the first five batsmen out in less than eleven overs, the home side simply failed to cope at all.

In the end only one batsman reached double figures in their paltry total of just 53; M. Collier (3-7) and J. Hector (5-12) being the main beneficiaries.

Bridport 88 all out lost to Dorchester 3rd 193-9 by 105 runs

DORCHESTER returned to winning ways after a disappointing defeat to Sturminster Marshall the previous week and although Dorchester's winning margin over local rivals Bridport was 105 runs, the result was evenly balanced and could have gone either way but for a fantastic match winning batting display from 17-year-old Jamie Quinten finishing 68 not out.

MATCH WINNER | Jamie Quinten

Dorchester won the toss and started brightly, against an experienced Bridport team, with Lewis Chutter and Jae Miller finding the boundary on regular occasions.

Their 50-run partnership came up in only the ninth over but on the last ball Ed Halsom had Chutter(27) edging a catch to Pete Bustin at first slip. Halsen struck again in his next over to remove Miller (29) with an off cutter, before Bustin struck three times.

He had Mat King(4) brilliant caught by the diving Will Gape and before Beer(8) drove into Jamie Dollman's hands at mid off. Ian Legg who had batted patiently for 12 became Bustin's third victim with a simple return catch to leave Dorchester on 98-5.

With the dismissals of Sam Roles and Martyn Jones it left Dorchester struggling on 137-7 and their innings petering out, but a 50-run partnership between Quinten and Simon Roles (9) pushed the Dorchester score to maximum batting points and a good total of 193-9 on a tricky wicket. Pick of the Bridport bowlers was Bustin with 3-32 from his 12 overs.

The Bridport batsmen found the wicket and the accurate bowling from the Dorchester opening bowler's Mat King and Martyn Jones difficult to deal with.

King removed the top three batsmen having

Duane Gay (2) caught by the returning captain Pete Tucker at mid on before a brilliant full length diving catch by Simon Roles at mid off removed the dangerous Mark Tozer for 10.

King then bowled Halsen (20) to leave Bridport on 37-3. The double bowling change of Nick Beer and Callum Tucker brought immediate results when Beer had Toby Hall (5) well caught by King and Tucker trapped Chris Churchill (1) leg before wicket with the score on 53-5. Beer struck again dismissing Gape for 13 and the score on 64-6.

It was left for young spinner Sam Roles and captain Pete Tucker to mop up the tail and seal an impressive 105 run victory over their local rivals who have also been promoted with Dorchester over the last two years.

Skipper Tucker said "The young lads were gutted after losing last week but turned in a fighting performance to seal an impressive victory. No praise is good enough for the batting display given by Jamie Quinten."

On a difficult wicket and under pressure of the Dorchester innings folding he showed great maturity with his shot selection. His cutting and driving was clean and precise and never gave a chance of being out.

"A mention must also go to senior player Simon Roles whose nine runs may not seem a lot but in context to the game gave Jamie the support and confidence to perform."

"It was good to see Lewis Chutter and vice captain Jae Miller punish some wayward early bowling, picking out the short boundary on many occasions."

"Mat King again produced an excellent opening spell and by taking out the top three batsmen quashing any real chance of them chasing down the winning total. The returning Martyn Jones bowled with some real zest but was unlikely not to take a wicket."

"The term that catches win matches was very apt; the Dorchester fielding was of a very high standard and I was extremely pleased to see the lads putting the practice fielding drills into a live match. With four of our last six games at home the run in for promotion to Division 5 looks to be exciting"

Bridport captain Jamie Dollman was disappointed with his sides batting performance.

"I was pleased with our bowling and fielding, and we did well to restrict them to under 200. However we did concede around 30 runs in our last five overs and that's something we must look at."

Sunday Division Four
Pokesdown Willows 200-8 beat
Symene 198-6 by 2 wickets

Victory would have almost assured safety from relegation for Symene against bottom side Pokesdown Willows, but having recovered from a bad start to post a reasonable target they once again let victory slip from their grasp.

With Liam Toohill, Phil Hawkins and Mark Tozer all out cheaply Symene were struggling at 16-3, but a fourth wicket partnership of 104 between Colin Willcox (33) and Marcel Grunschloss (72) put the visitors back in contention, and an unbeaten sixth wicket stand of 57 between Nigel Toohill (33 not out) and Nick Skyrme (29 not out) seemed as if it would be enough.

Sam Challis had early success bowling Pokesdown's main threat M Butcher for a duck, but solid innings from C Fox (45) and P Butcher (52) put them back in the frame.

However a collapse from 161-4 to 166-7 should have been bettered but G Riglar (45) was dropped and he went on to take the scores level before being dismissed, and a scratchy four off an inside edge saw the host's claim victory with an over to spare.

Four Symene bowlers bagged a brace each; Challis (2-34), Willcox (2-40), Grunschloss (2-54) and Graham Bartlett (2-34).

Readers Mid-Wessex League
Division One*Wincanton 206-2 beat
Broadwindsor 205-6 by 8 wickets

SECOND placed Broadwindsor found leaders Wincanton too good for them and went down by eight wickets.

Despite lodging an impressive target of 205-6, Wincanton's openers M Sterland (69) and the unbeaten A Coombes with 91 not out set up the win with three overs to spare; Adie Phillips and Ian Johnson the only two Broadwindsor bowlers to take a wicket.

Chris Park (63), Richard Runyard (47) and Steve Phillips (35) top scored for the visitors.

Adie Phillips said: "You have to give them credit, they were the better side on the day."

BLAKE EARNS OLYMPIC SPONSORSHIP

PARALYMPIC 2012 hopeful Paul Blake has been boosted in his attempt to win a double gold at the London event with two offers of sponsorship following the View from Newspapers campaign to raise financial support the 20-year-old.

Paul is ranked No1 in the world this year in the IPC rankings for the 800m and 1500m in the T36 category, but it costs him in the region of £10,000 per annum to compete and train.

Apart from a grant of around £2000 from the authorities, his parents have borne the brunt of the cost. He trains three times a week at Bath University and costs are rising as the number of competitions increase.

Local racehorse owner and breeder Liz Nelson read Stuart Broom's profile on Paul in a recent article and decided she would like to help him financially.

She suffers from motor neurone disease and has to use a wheelchair, so appreciates the effort and determination that both Paul and his family have shown to overcome his disabilities.

"I thought it was a fantastic story, and am full of admiration for both Paul and his family. I have met him and he is such a lovely young man. I was absolutely amazed at what he has achieved considering his condition when he was born.

"I will be sponsoring him right up to the Olympics and beyond, I believe he is a wonderful example of what can be achieved despite having a disability."

Paul has also received the support of the Terry Collin Fund, set up in memory for the former Bridport News sports editor to help disabled sportsmen and sportswomen.

His sister Heather Crabb said: "We are delighted to support Paul and will be donating £2000 to help towards his costs. We read the story in the View From Beaminster newspaper and recognised Paul as exactly the type of person the fund was set up to help and we hope that he achieves his goal.

"He has shown such determination to overcome his disabilities and to have the chance of a gold medal at the 2012 Olympics is a wonderful achievement. Terry would have been full of admiration for him."

The fund is run by Heather, her sisters Mary and Anna and former Bridport News editor David Cozens. Heather added: "I hope this story will prompt other disabled sports people to approach us if they feel they need financial help."

Paul is also to feature in a new Channel 4 television programme that will follow a number of disabled sportsmen and women who are part of the Paralympic GB team development programme and hoping to compete in the London 2012 games.

Filming starts later this month, and the programme will be following Paul both at home and in during training and competitions.

English Schools Athletics

Westhenry stakes a claim

BEN Westhenry staked a claim for a potential English Schools title next year with a superb run in the 1500m steeplechase at the recent Track & Field Championships held at Alexander Stadium, Birmingham.

Ben and fellow Weymouth All Saints student Jake Guildford produced good performances that auger well for the future.

Westhenry (15) running in the Inter Boys (under 17) produced a personal best of 4min 23 secs in only his fourth attempt at the discipline, a time that would have won him gold last year; Berkshire's Zak Seddon winning in the fastest 1500m steeplechase race ever in the 80-year history of the championships.

Westhenry, did well to stay with the three ahead of him as they broke from the field with 800m remaining, and despite being the least experienced of the quartet was gaining on third place Matt McLaughlin as they came down the final straight.

A member of Weymouth St Paul's Harriers (WSPH), he is now ranked 4th in his age group in the UK, and has the potential to improve having another year in his age group. As a distance runner finalist he later attended a session hosted by Dame Kelly Holmes.

Fourteen-year-old Guildford also impressed in his first national championships. Also a member of WSPH's he competed in the Junior Boys shot.

Having achieved over 15m in training, hampered by a cast on his left hand he threw well below his best but claimed 10th place in a field of 24 with a throw of 12.71m (still an English standard throw).

With the experience of a national competition under his belt, he will hope to show his true potential at the England Athletics Under 15 & Under 17 Outdoor Championships in Bedford in August.

Devlin stars as Magpies blunt Daggers

DORCHESTER TOWN 1 DAGENHAM & REDBRIDGE 1

A LAST minute Steve Devlin blockbuster gave Dorchester Town a deserved draw against newly promoted League One side Dagenham & Redbridge in a pre-season friendly at The Avenue last Saturday.

The Magpies certainly matched their illustrious visitors who won the play-offs at Wembley in May, although Phil Walsh who joined the Daggers from Dorchester at the beginning of the year and played the last ten minutes at Wembley, was sidelined with a foot injury.

Recovering from the 6-0 hammering they received from Crawley Town the night before, Dorchester played with a pace and determination that caused the Daggers defence several problems particularly up front.

Manager Ashley Vickers who started with a line-up that included a number of the players who will form the backbone to next season's side also included Stuart Douglas, who is hoping to win a contract with the club up front.

He took the place of recent signing Dave Allen who was rested after playing all the game against Crawley, and he showed Vickers that he could be a good signing.

He is big and strong and kept the visitors defence under pressure for an hour before being substituted and might have scored as early as the 10th minute when he was put through by a Matt Groves flick that deceived the Daggers defence. However former QPR keeper Tony Roberts, now 40-years-old showed he has not lost his agility by spreading himself and deflecting the ball for a corner with his outstretched foot, much akin to Casillas against Robben in the World Cup Final.

Dorchester had a strong appeal for a penalty turned down when Jamie Gleeson went down under a challenge from Romaine Vincelot six yards from goal but the referee waved play on.

It took over half an hour for Dagenham & Redbridge to muster a shot when Danny Green's 30-yarder flew over the crossbar, before Roberts was once again showing sharp reactions in collecting Devlin's deflected shot at full stretch. The Daggers had their own penalty appeal turned down on the stroke of halftime when Scott Doe's header from a corner appeared to strike Douglas's hand.

Ryan Moss appeared for the second half along with a multitude of Daggers subs, and had a great chance to put the Magpies ahead but poked the ball beyond the far post.

Gavin Tomlin who moved from Yeovil Town in the summer set Paul Benson up with an open goal with a flicked header but the striker stumbled over the ball and put it wide.

More chances were created by both sides as changes were made including a 25-yard drive from Graeme Montgomery which was well held by Magpies substitute keeper Mike Hookway.

The visitors took the lead three minutes from time when Tomlin found the net from a close range, but Devlin hit back almost immediately. Moss neatly chested a ball out of defence into the path of trialist Rico Wilson. He switched it sideways to Devlin who smashed a left foot shot high into the net from the edge of the box for a deserved draw.

Buccs snatch last-gasp victory

WEYMOUTH 44 BOURNEMOUTH 46

National League Speedway

FORMER Wildcat Jon Armstrong held off Byron Bekker and James Cockle in the last heat to give Bournemouth Buccaneers a slim two point National League victory over Weymouth Wildcats at the Wessex Stadium last Friday.

Current Dudley rider Armstrong stole the show for the visitors in his guest capacity with 10+1 and received solid back up to give the Buccaneers only their second away victory this season, both of which have been at Weymouth. Meanwhile several falls and retirements hampered the Wildcats quest for the much needed league points on a night when there was very little between the two south coast sides eager for victory which came in the 15th heat.

With eleven shared heats, three 4-2's and only one 5-1 heat advantage the good sized crowd witnessed some cracking racing. It took five heats before the deadlock was broken by Armstrong grabbing the win backed up by Halsey after a good battle with Brown early on to put the Buccaneers 13-17 into the lead.

Three more shared heats followed, heat six produced a great tussle between Gary Cottham and Mark Baseby coming early on for the lead with Baseby coming out on top. James Cockle stormed away to win heat eight and Luke Chessell took the flag in heat eight. The Wildcats gained a heat advantage with Cottham taking the win from Mark Baseby and Tom Brown in third remounting after a fall to narrow the gap to two points 26-28 in heat nine.

Byron Bekker tied up heat ten after another great tussle with Kyle Howarth and Karl Mason but the Buccaneers edged ahead by four points with Armstrong taking the win over Cockle and Daniel Halsey in third. Brown came out after a disappointing evening in heat twelve and took the win from Mason who had the early lead until he slid off on the fourth turn of the third lap bringing the difference back down to two points, 35-37.

That was the last heat advantage with the last three heats shared evenly, Bekker winning heat 13, Howarth heat 14 and Armstrong cutting up the inside of the first turn to head the Wildcats pair of Bekker and Cockle in the last heat to give a meeting result of 44-46 and three league points to Bournemouth leaving the Wildcats firmly at the foot of the table.

Next week the Wildcats change their race night to Saturday (July 24th) against the Plymouth Devils. Prior to the meeting Southern Classic Speedway Bikes have a display on Weymouth promenade by the Jubilee clock from 10.00am till 4.00pm prior to the Wildcats home fixture at 7.15pm. Bikes on display range from early JAPS to the modern day lay-downs including Jason Crumps 2007 machine. Around 18 bikes are likely to be on display giving the opportunity for supporters to pop along and view these pristine machines before the meeting.

If you are able to display an A4 poster to help promote Weymouth Speedway there is a downloadable poster available on the homepage of the clubs website www.weymouthwildcats.co.uk

BUCKLER BLOW AS NICHE BOLTS OVER TO NICHOLLS

BOB Buckler was rocked last week by the news that his star horse Niche Market was being transferred to top National Hunt trainer Paul Nicholls stables at Ditcheat in Somerset.

"It's quite gutting," said Buckler who only heard the news ten ago. "The first I heard about it was on the Saturday and it all happened from there. However owners are entitled to do what they want, these things happen in racing, but I am very disappointed."

The nine-year-old joined Buckler's yard in the autumn of 2007 and in his 19 runs earned almost £ ¼ million pounds in prize money including the 2009 Irish Grand National.

His owner Graham Regan is reported to have decided on the move in an effort to find out how good his horse is. He says there was no row with Buckler, and appreciates that he is very disappointed, but felt the opportunity to move to the champion NH trainer was something he couldn't miss.

The move however has not found support from all quarters of the racing fraternity, with The Independent's Chris McGrath quite scathing in last Saturday's edition of Regan's decision, a move he claims does not always bring success.

In his article where he discusses the vagaries of trying to buy success he champions the success and importance of the smaller yard's and says:

"Take the egregious example of Mr Graham Regan, who this week got it into his head to transfer Niche Market from Bob Buckler to Paul Nicholls. Here was a horse whose success in the Irish National confirmed that Buckler, with a fraction of the resources that underpin Nicholls as champion trainer, was a match for anyone - given the right material." "Buckler, with his expert eye for a slow-burning, chasing type, had picked out Niche Market for just £20,000. And he turned him into one of the most irresistible steeplechasers in training, whose exuberant jumping and indefatigable gallop contributed to the downfall of Denman himself, when he refused to buckle at Newbury in February.

"He will have been treated like royalty in Buckler's yard. With Nicholls, he will find himself among the proletariat. While wishing him no ill, very few would now find Niche Market winning at Aintree very palatable - though it must be said that Nicholls, himself readily exonerated of any blame in accepting the horse, is notoriously unproductive in the National."

In an interesting reversal of roles, Nicholls has lost a top horse that has been transferred to another stable.

Fine Fella Thanks who finished fourth in this year's Aintree Grand National has been moved to Ferdy Murphy's stable in North Yorkshire by his owner Harry Findlay who claims a perceived lack of support from the champion trainer's yard - just the point McGrath was making about the possible lack of individual attention at a stable full of top class horses.

Findlay has also sold his share in Denman to co-owner Paul Barber whilst nine other horses he had in training at Nicholls's yard are to be sold at the Doncaster Sales next month.

Niche Market's last run for Buckler was in the national in April where he had to be pulled up after suffering a leg injury when another horse cut into him.

Regan confirmed that next year's national was again his objective starting with the Hennessy Gold Cup at Newbury in November, interestingly the same objective as Fine Fella Thanks.

Buckler has not been idle filling his star's box and has purchased two horses from one of his favourite sources; Michael Hourigan in County Limerick, Ireland.

"One is an athletic, lovely grey four-year-old who looks very promising and will eventually go over fences," said Buckler, who has also picked up two horses from Robert Alner's yard following his retirement.

One, Red Johnny, a five-year-old who has been placed in a bumper looks a promising prospect.

Cullahill has had the throat operation that was agreed following his recent run at Newton Abbot.

MEARS HELPS ENGLAND TO SILVER

A GOOD individual performance from Ollie Mears helped England to achieve silver in the Home International Junior Shore Angling Championships held in Peterhead, Scotland in early July.

Ollie came second in his zone on Day 1 and third on Day 2 as England finished runners-up on 26pts behind champions Ireland (30pts). Day 1 saw England finish second behind the Irish team after fishing from Scots-down beach. On Day 2 they were unable to fish their designated beach due to an on shore wind and a long walk over dunes, so they switched to Fraserburgh where the wind was behind them, and England once again finished second, this time behind the Scots.

Ollie was back to club fishing the week after and took the latest Saturday Junior Match with a catch of 221g legal weight. Six members and three guests fished off East Pier, West Bay where 37 fish were caught ranging from weever, pout, shanny, flounder, bass, wrasse, pollock, rockling, red mullet and whiting, with everyone managing to catch a fish.

Connor Hallett took second with 185g legal weight, and Jake Preston third with 45g legal weight. Lyam Bull caught the heaviest flat fish; a 102g flounder; and Mears 302g bass was the heaviest round fish. Jed Walther took the wooden spoon.

WELL DONE | Ollie Mears receives the congratulations of junior secretary Roger (Hoot) Guppy.

Devlin ticks Daggers' boxes

DORCHESTER Town manager Ashley Vickers was pleased that his side had recovered from their drubbing by Crawley Town the previous day to put on an excellent performance against League One side Dagenham & Redbridge.

"We got back to some sort of semblance of normality and what we know and trust. Whilst we need to use trialist to know how good they are, and without being disrespectful to any of the lads who played, the unknown can sometimes give you problems with shape and discipline and that showed against Crawley.

"But I was very pleased today. The players know their positions and jobs and the shape we want and I was pleased with their endeavours.

"The first half was pretty much the Dagenham's side that won the League Two play-off final, and they upped the ante again in the second half, so it was great for them to bring down their first-team squad.

BY STUART BROOM

"I told our boys afterwards that they put in a supreme effort, and all the plaudits must go to them against side that are known for their fitness."

Vickers will be looking at his options over the next few days as he decides who he would like see more of and which players he needs to move on. "It's no benefit to either party for them to be around if they are not going to feature in the future."

One player Vickers hopes he can persuade to stay is Stuart Douglas. The striker played for two promoted Conference South side's last season; Bath City and Newport County to whom he was loaned for six games.

Douglas played the first hour before being substituted, Vickers said of him: "Dougie was excellent and gave us a really good outlet. He plays a lot like Ryan Moss to a certain extent as they're both big, strong boys. He brings that extra bit of experience; holding the ball up and retaining possession. Let's not forget he was part of two promotion-winning teams last season.

"He's chomping at the bit to sign for Dorchester Town, it's just whether we can agree terms. I'm hopeful we will and I'm hopeful the chairman will have seen his performance and think positively on it because he would be a great addition. He's a winner and a good character to have around."

"He's a handful and a real presence up front. He has that aura about him and upsets defenders at every level and would be an asset to anyone.

However Steve Devlin's performance has brought him to the attention of the Daggers and they want to have another look at him.

"Dagenham were waxing lyrical about Steve afterwards, they thought he was very good. I am on record as saying I think he is one of the boys who can go on from this club."
